Entrusting Children With Important Tasks Helps Give Them Confidence

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Georgia, let us do something nice."

"What?" said small Georgia excitedly.

Her mother pretended to think a minute. Then she exclaimed as though the notion had just popped into her head. "Let's bake some bread."

"In my play kitchen? In my own stove?"

"I'm afraid that wouldn't make enough. Let us try the big kitchen and make real bread."

"I'll watch."

"My goodness alive! It isn't fun watching things. It's only fun doing them."

The little girl looked doubtful. She had watched Annie baking but Annie usually shoed her out of the kitchen. Now it was Annie's day out and there was nobody to order her about.

Interest Aroused

Her mother told her what to set out. The big bread pan was almost as big as Georgia herself, but it wasn't heavy. Getting the flour out of the bin was a lot of fun and sifting it was still more fun. She was allowed to dissolve the yeast in just so much water. She measured out salt, sugar, a little butter, and her mother let her use milk instead of potato water.

She made a "hole" in the flour and poured the wet mixture in. At this stage her mother had to help. Georgia's young arms were not strong enough for bread mix-

Your gown—beautiful!—will tell a fashionable story if it is like this one— which is symbolic of the present evening mode. Simple of design, its lines are perfect when made up in black chiffon or delicate lace—

THIS is a charmingly feminine frock for dinner or dancing which can be easily and inexpensively made even by beginners. It is softly draped at the neck and caught to form a short cape on the shoulders. Panels that curve into short hip yoke sections are lengthened on the sides of the skirt with slightly flared sections, and the waist describes a deep V in the back.

Be among the first to have one of the new woollen frocks which is ideal for spectator sports, travel or street wear. A high neck line and full sleeves will reward you with smart wide shoulders, slim waist and hips—

ing. The sponge was set away to raise until after lunch.

The little girl was so excited she could scarcely wait for the second process of working up the dough again and setting the loaves to come up in the pans.

Everything that she could do her mother let her do. And the bread was good, excellent! The four golden loaves were standing on the table for daddy to admire.

"I baked bread to-day!" she told all the neighbours proudly. They laughed and said she was crazy. How could a nine-year-old child bake bread anyway!

But she had, all except the hard mixing and kneading. And she had even helped at that, too.

Instilling Confidence

The next week she said eagerly: "Mother, can we bake again to-day? And can I count things out myself without you telling? I want to do it all."

"Certainly."

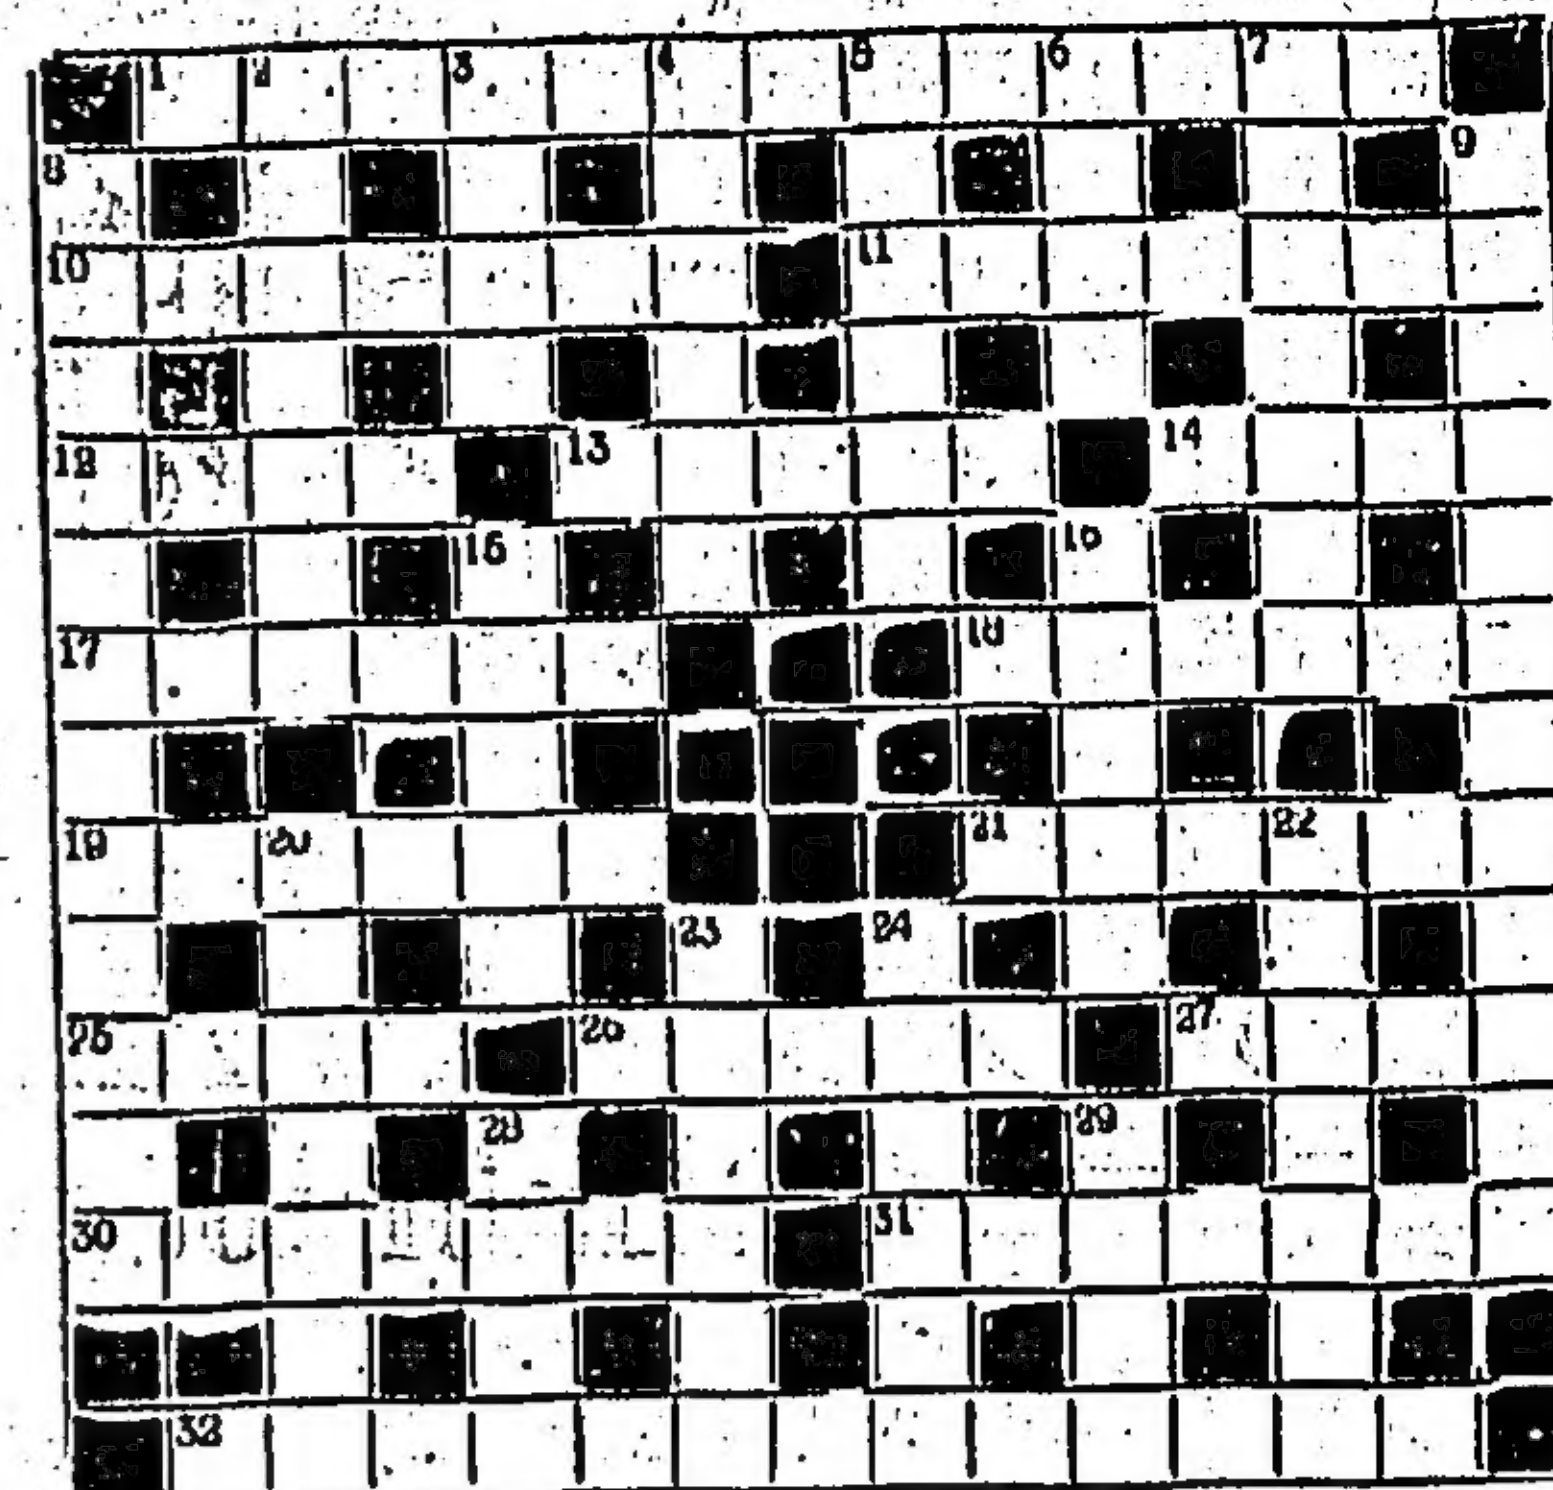

Her mother corrected her twice. Otherwise Georgia did the whole thing even to cutting off the dough and shaping the loaves.

In time Georgia's bread became famous. Little by little her mother taught her to bake other things. She pulled much but learned more. And she liked to cook because it was approached as a game and while her interest was at its height.

We wait too late to condition children to any kind of task. Making bread isn't any harder than most school lessons.

True, their bodies and muscles are not fitted to do the perfect job. I chose "bread" for my subject because this once happened, but it could be any of a number of things.

Healthful Sleep.

While baby sleeps he grows. He also recoups the energy expended during his waking hours. The value of plenty of healthy, natural sleep cannot be overestimated.

When baby is restless and irritable the fault usually lies in stomach or bowels. In fact most infantile troubles have their origin in these organs. Wise parents keep their children well and happy by administering Baby's Own Tablets immediately they observe all is not well with the little ones.

Baby's Own Tablets have a gently stimulating and cleansing effect upon the entire digestive and intestinal system. For constipation, mild or severe, for stomach troubles such as indigestion, flatulence, vomiting, for croup and convulsions, colds, simple fevers, worms, diarrhoea and general conditions of ill colour parents can use nothing more pleasantly and rapidly efficacious than Baby's Own Tablets. Being the prescription of a qualified medical practitioner of special experience with children Baby's Own Tablets are absolutely safe and reliable. All chemists can supply you.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXVI

It was Charles, the office boy, who had entered the room. He brought several copies of the home edition of the evening newspaper which he laid on Eve's desk.

She spread the pages open, hoping fervently that Mona had made no mistakes in sending out the copy. First she turned to Bixby's advertisement, studying it to see that each cut accompanied the copy it was to illustrate. Then, with more care, she read the advertisement to make sure she had not overlooked any typographical errors when she read the proof.

The next day was Saturday and the merchandise featured was a group of 100 winter coats marked down to $59.50 each. This lot included many coats that had been much higher priced originally. Barnes had written the copy himself after a consultation with Mr. Bixby and Miss Gordon, the coat buyer.

Fortunately, Eve thought, it would have been practically impossible for an error to occur. It was just then that Miss Gordon burst into the office with a copy of the newspaper in her hand, demanding to know why the proof of the coat advertisement had not been sent to her for an O. K.

"Look at that!" the buyer almost shouted, pointing to the advertisement.

"Why, what's wrong with it?" Eve asked in dismay.

"What's wrong with it? Nothing—except a mistake of $20 in the price! The price on the copy was $59.50 as plain as anything. Look at the carbon of Mr. Barnes' copy and you'll see. And here it's $39.50. It means a loss of $2000 on 100 coats. Just wait until Mr. Bixby hears of this! Why wasn't the proof sent to me for my O. K.?"

"But I did send it to you!" Eve protested. "I sent it by Charles, the office boy."

"Well, he didn't come to me. Look up the copy and you'll see I didn't O. K. it."

Mr. Bixby entered the office at that moment. He, too, carried a copy of the same newspaper, open at the offending advertisement. His face was grim. Eve clutched at her vanishing courage. No matter who was to blame for this error, she would be held responsible because Barnes was absent.

The store owner opened the door of Barnes' office. Eve and Miss Gordon obeyed his unspoken command to enter. He followed and closed the door, for which Eve blessed him. She could not bear the humiliation. Mona must be at the bottom of this, of course. Eve had corrected the proofs that morning and then sent Charles to take them to the buyers whose departments were represented. Before Charles' return Eve had been called to Mr. Bixby's office—a summons she felt she must obey at once.

She had given Mona explicit directions about returning the proofs to the newspaper office. Mona had blundered in some way. Blundered purposely and maliciously, Eve was sure.

When Mr. Bixby asked for an explanation Eve gave the details, briefly and frankly, making no effort to evade the responsibility.

Charles was called in then and explained that he had been unable to find Miss Gordon though he had returned several times to the department. He had asked Miss Allen, he said, if he should take the advertisement to Mr. Bixby for an O. K., and she had replied that she would attend to the matter herself as she had another errand on the fifth floor and it would be no trouble to take the proofs.

Charles was dismissed then and Mona summoned. She came, and Eve knew she would, looking very young and innocent.

"Oh, did I do something wrong?" she exclaimed, lifting wide, appealing eyes to Mr. Bixby. "I'm terribly sorry! You see, I waited and waited for Mrs. Rader to come back—she said she'd only be gone a half hour and I expected her any minute. Then when I was on the point of going up to your office, Mr. Bixby, as Charles had suggested I looked at my watch and saw that it was time for Mrs. Rader's lunch period. I knew she'd be back in time for that and would rather attend to the ad herself, so I thought it was all right for me to go to lunch."

"And of course," Arlene said when Eve related the story, "the big boss fell for all that—hook, line and sinker! The only reason she didn't grab the chance to go to Bixby's office was that some darned fool man called up and invited her to lunch. You'd think men would see through her wiles but they don't!"

"Well, it was my fault," admitted Eve. "I should have hurried back from Mr. Bixby's office to attend to the proofs myself. Knowing Mona as I do, I might have realized she'd make some mistake if she thought it could possibly get me into difficulties."

"Oh, well!" Arlene tried to comfort her, "the mistake was discovered in time to be corrected in the sports edition."

"Yes, but it's the home edition that the women read and the home edition that goes to all the country towns. You can imagine what would happen in the coat department to-morrow if Miss Gordon and her saleswomen tried to explain to all those bargain hunters that the price published was a typographical error. No, Mr. Bixby told Miss Gordon to go ahead with the sale as advertised. And of course she feels dreadful! So does Mr. Bixby but he tried not to show it. He'll stand down there to-morrow and watch that $2000 disappear without the flicker of an eyelash."

Eve forced herself to go down to the coat department next day to watch the results of the error. Mr. Bixby was there, a little withdrawn from the crowd and watching them swarm about the bargain racks. It was a scene of confusion, with the sales force working as rapidly as possible, trying to serve the throng, to answer questions, and fit coats and, through it all, remain pleasant-voiced and courteous. The sale had attracted many avid bargain hunters who dragged garments from the racks and tried to fit themselves, crowding others from before the mirrors. It was a miracle that anyone could keep even-tempered after half an hour of that bedlam and Eve wondered at the self-control displayed by the saleswomen. Miss Gordon, brisk and efficient, seemed to be everywhere at once.

"I see that the criminal is drawn irresistibly to the scene of the murder!" a merry voice whispered in Eve's ear. She turned to face Arlene who had come up behind her.

"Couldn't resist coming down to view the slaughter myself," Arlene confessed. "Oh, my word! There's our blond playmate condoling with Mr. Bixby! You can't beat that girl for crust. She would come blithely away and leave the telephone unguarded! I'll have to get back to the office."

"I'll go with you," offered Eve. "I never want to see another bargain sale as long as I live!"

How she survived that day Eve never knew. She had felt ill with nervousness from the time the mistake in the advertisement was discovered Friday until closing hour Saturday. Over and over she tried to figure mentally how long it would take her to earn $2000. Then she thought of how much she would have to earn before she could save that amount from her salary. This was mental punishment purely. The loss due to the mistake would fall on Bixby's.

"I'll be afraid to face Mr. Barnes Monday morning," Eve told Arlene. "I don't see how I can ever live this down!"

What the error was to cost her, Eve could only guess.

"All favouring revision of the Treaty of Versailles, raise their right hands!" That might well have been the command which brought the sea of uplifted hands pictured here as German Nazis saluted during the gigantic demonstration in the Lustgarten, Berlin, the anniversary of the signing of the pact. The day was one of mourning with demonstrations throughout the country.

Demonstrations throughout Germany marked the recent anniversary of the signing of the Versailles Treaty, and the day was observed as one of mourning. Thousands in schools like the one shown above held pupils up at the treaty had done to the country. The teacher's pointer is indicating on the map the territory lost to France.

THE HOLY YEAR

BISHOP VALTORTA ISSUES PASTORAL LETTER

"To-day there is in the world a revival of heathenism, of that
heathenism which, rejecting every
ideal of the supernatural, makes life an end unto itself," comments
the Rt. Rev. Bishop Henry Val-torta, Vicar Apostolic of Hongkong, in his Pastoral Letter for the Holy Year. The Bishop writes in part as follows:

This year the whole Catholic World is celebrating a glorious centennial anniversary, that of the Redemption of Mankind.
It is too great and solemn an occasion to be passed over without special notice. I feel it is my duty to exhort you to honour in a more than usually worthy manner this centenary, the greatest and most august that contemporary history has to chronicle; for what are the greatest victories of the most famous warriors, the most important discoveries of science, the rise and fall of mighty empires and powerful dynasties when compared with the Divine Event of the Redemption of Mankind?

Everything in this world is fleeting and perishable. The one thing that matters is Eternity and all that is connected with Eternity. What is not eternal is nothing. The Events which we are commemorating this year go far beyond all human events as spirit goes beyond matter. We are concerned with happenings
which occupy the highest place
in the dealings of God with man, and which find the very reason of their being in that supernatural life of the soul
which has been purchased for us
by Redemption; in that everlasting existence towards which we are all journeying, the attainment
of which "the one thing necessary" spoken of in the Gospels.

The memorable happening,
which may be summed up in the one word "Redemption" consists of a series of events or, more properly speaking, of Divine Favours. It is well to recall them to mind.—Firstly, the Institution at the Last Supper of the Most Blessed Eucharist, shared with each of the Apostles, who were initiated into the Order of Priesthood as indicated by the words:
"Do this in commemoration of Me" (Luke xxii, 19); the Passion,
Crucifixion and Death of Jesus Christ for the Salvation of Mankind; the appointment of Mary,
Ever Virgin, who stood beneath
the Cross of her Son, as the Mother of all men; secondly, the wonderful Resurrection of Jesus Christ, the condition and certain pledge of our resurrection; the power of forgiving sins conferred by Him on His Apostles, and the true Primacy of Jurisdiction bestowed on Peter and his successors and confirmed to them; finally, the Ascension of Our Lord, the Descent of the Holy Ghost, the Paraclete, and the first preaching of the Gospel by the Apostles, performed with extraordinary zeal
and with such signal triumph.

After quoting in part the Pontiff's message, the Bishop continues:

Life a Pilgrimage.

We Catholics must bring home
to ourselves, not only theoretically in the practices of our everyday life, the great truth that this life is merely a pilgrimage towards eternity. Too many, who for a life of pleasure in this world lose sight of that life which is eternal, of that life which is the only true one and the only one deserving of our efforts, forget this all-important fact. The aim and

SERIOUS SITUATION IN THE NORTH

Dairen, Sept. 19.
Bubonic and pneumonic plagues
have claimed more than 600 lives
during the past fortnight in the Supingkai and Taonan districts.
The Shanghai and Mukden Railway Company announces that it is launching an intensive campaign against rats and that there is a suspension of the fur hide traffic.
The Company also announces that there is a halting of communications between Taonan and Kaitung
on the railway.

Stringent medical restrictions
have been put into effect in an effort to keep the plague from South Manchuria.—Reuter.

object of this earthly pilgrimage
is not to have a pleasant time but
to work and to suffer, for the eternal reward of heaven shall be granted
only to those who have merited it through their good works. If we do not live daily up to this standard we cannot expect either to be good Catholics or to do good to suffering humanity.

To-day in the world there is an inordinate craving after pleasure,
associated with a deeply rooted hatred of suffering, and we forget that we are followers of a Crucified Master who came on earth to suffer, and by His suffering redeemed us.

To-day there is in the world a
revival of heathenism, of that
heathenism which, rejecting every
ideal of the supernatural, makes life an end unto itself, and all too frequently we allow ourselves to be carried away by the current, living as if unconscious of the divine life or our souls which we take no care to make perfect or to enrich with supernatural graces; and consequence of our being steeped in a life of material pleasure!

To find some remedy for this gloomy state of things it is to be hoped, as the Holy Father says,
that the celebration of the Holy
Year may act as an incentive.
Our hopes will not be baffled if we but draw near once again to the pure sources of the Divine Life; if we but bring home to ourselves the sublime excellence of our souls,
bought by Jesus at the cost of His Precious Blood; if we but learn to hate sin which makes our souls the slaves of Satan.

Detaching ourselves from the love of the world means, of course,
self-denial and mortification. Life is a never-ending warfare, a daily fight between the spirit and the flesh. This is the awful consequence of sin. Passions rebel against reason, and the flesh, unless it be unceasingly kept in control, ends by subjugating and crushing the soul. This is what necessarily happens to pagan humanity in general. It is in our power, if we only will to use that power, to master the flesh and develop the life of the soul. In this way alone may we succeed in becoming true followers of Jesus Christ.

In concluding his message,
Bishop Valtorta details the spiritual observances in connexion with the Holy Year, which he urges all Catholics to observe.

WORLD CRISIS A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form. One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme. The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post, at a cost of—

FOREIGN LEGION AT WAR

Is a Berber attack in mass at night. It happens rarely, for the undisciplined clansmen usually return to their families and flocks when darkness sets in. But the greyish cloak of the Berber is almost invisible in the darkness. He can move over the rocks and stones as swiftly and silently as a panther, and if he succeeds in rushing the post, its garrison may be slashed to pieces by the long, sharp, curved knives of their adversaries, for it is a standing order that if the enemy gets inside the breastwork the Legionaries must not fire for fear of shooting each other. The worst fate of all is to fall wounded or whole into the hands of the Berbers, but good discipline makes that unlikely.

It is probable that the Legion has now reached the climax of its gallant military history. France's possessions in North Africa, which it was formed to pacify and protect, have been almost completely reduced to conditions of civil administration. Soon there may no longer be need of as many as three regiments of three battalions each, together with a cavalry regiment and a motorised section in Morocco. In addition to another regiment in Algeria, one in Tonkin and a battalion in Syria. But though its numbers may be reduced, the prestige of the Foreign Legion will live in the world's memory as long as military history itself.

THE NEW SOCIALISM

Even under a National Government, Britain is moving slowly
but surely towards what we may term "the new Socialism." That brilliantly conceived project, the national electrification scheme is practically complete. London's great transport system in its entirety has been brought under public control. Major Walter Elliott's schemes for agriculture
are tending in the same direction.
And the annual report of the Post Office recently issued shows
clearly that even a State department may become more efficient and enterprising when released from Treasury control. The yearly sales figure is an impressive one—7,000,000,000 postage stamps. But since the Post Office deals also with telegraphs, telephones, money orders, the Post Office Savings Bank, wireless licenses and inter-Imperial wireless telegraphy, the figure of the turnover of its business is still more impressive—£760-000,000 a year. It is thus evident that this commercial undertaking, conducted by a chief who is responsible to Parliament, is one of the largest businesses in the world. The measure of its efficiency or inefficiency is a measure of the possibilities of a socialized concern.
The fact that it made last year
a record profit is not in itself
an indication of success; for the control of an indispensable monopoly ought to insure its profits. It must be judged rather by the nature of the services it renders, by its capacity in expanding them when expansion or contraction can be influenced, and by its merits as an employer of labour. The workers are adequately though not highly paid, are comparatively secure in their employment, and receive pensions on retirement. The latter postage service has for many years claimed to be the most speedy and the most reliable in the world. The telephone services, on the other hand, have been open to severe criticism, but recently there has been a distinct improvement. The department has rebuilt many post offices, established automatic telephone exchanges, and has made radio an efficient medium

NOTES OF THE DAY

THE COAL CODE

The bitter argument which preceded the signature of the coal code the United States tested the social conscience and the intelligence of all parties involved
—the owners, the miners and the government itself. It brought into the spotlight a sector of the industrial front which has needed government regulation, probably,
more than any other, and gives a chance of seeing whether reforms which have been urgently needed for years can finally be applied under the pressure of national emergency. The industry which could not possibly do justice without some sort of far-reaching and drastic corrective being applied from above. The United States has more coal mines than it needs and more coal miners
than it can ordinarily employ.
Even a sudden return to 1929
levels of business activity would not involve consumption of all the coal that can be mined annually, nor would it provide jobs
for all the miners.

COMPULSION

The industry, in short, has managed to concentrate within itself nearly all of the evils of present-day industrialism. And there was not the slightest sign that the industry would solve its troubles by its own unaided efforts. The code offered an opportunity for the industry to become stabilised, for its production to get geared to consumption.
The response of the industry however, was far from encouraging.
It split into factions—no fewer than 27 codes were submitted by different groups of bituminous operators. Certain groups refused to relax their archaic anti-union traditions. Others insisted that they would not submit to government supervision under any circumstances. Under compulsion they have changed their mind and further compulsion is being brought to bear by the process, which the President saw as inevitable, of the appointment of a Government Board of Control. The N.R.A. victory, in the circumstances seems an empty
one. Acceptance of the spirit of the Codes is the only assurance of success and the coal-owners
have not risen to the occasion.

WHEAT

Representatives of several nations have been in conference in London, resuming their deliberations on the dilemma of wheat.
Whether to agree on curtailment
of production and encouragement of consumption, or to follow the path of piling up surpluses against tariffs and tariffs against surpluses to an unknown but certainly bitter end—that was the question. There was no doubt as to which alternative was the more desirable. Agreement must always be preferable to disagreement. But the agreement, to be designed for a world that is not standing still but moving. The conditions of wheat growing and marketing are constantly in flux.
The major change of the last decade is that European nations
once eager to buy wheat at a dollar or more a bushel now want none of it at half the price. They have intent on building up internal supplies even at twice the cost. Some change of policy in the common interest is now
promised and the primary producers have a basis on which to arrange their quotas.

of world communication. This energy on the part of the post office shows that a State department is not necessarily, and in the nature of things, unenterprising in business. But it is impossible not to connect this new energy with recent changes
that have been made in releasing the department from too-much interference by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Formerly all its profits had to be handed over, and all accounts
and proposals for new expenditure were meticulously examined. Now it is allowed to retain some of its profits for new development, and the day-to-day scrutiny of expenditure by an outside body is abolished. The success of the Post Office affords
a striking demonstration of the fact that if the State is to enter into business it must be through a body empowered to control its own administration.
The Post Office is still a State department. But it is nearer,
in character, than it was formerly to those semi-independent public utility corporations which the new Socialism is increasingly holding up as its ideal.

FOREIGN LEGION AT WAR

By G. WARD PRICE,

The brilliant English journalist who visited Hongkong last year

THIS fortnight that I have spent with the French Army
on active service among the mountains of the Grand Atlas will seem to me in retrospect like a dream of the Arabian Nights. It would be difficult to imagine a more colourful campaign, for although I say, "The French Army," except for the officers, non-commissioned officers and a few gunners, the only European troops taking part in the operations are the Foreign Legion. The rest are a picturesque mix of native corps
and levies ranging from Senegalese
infantry, whose discipline
is of European model, to what are called "Partisans." These consist of Berbers who in most cases were fighting against the French until a few weeks ago, but having made their submission have been given a rifle and 100 cartridges and are sent off to skirmish against their fellow Berbers who are still resisting, at 18. 6d. a day
"and find yourself."

What puzzles me about these Partisans is how the French distinguish between them and the enemy who are dressed exactly in the same way, employ the same
tactics and speak the same tongue.
"You can't distinguish between them," said a French lieutenant who commanded 200 of these emergency warriors. "If you see some Ber-
bers on a ridge who are shooting at you, they're the enemy. If they're shooting the other way
they're your own chaps."

"Do you speak their language?"
I asked. He was a big, smiling young man who wore the wide light-blue breeches of the Spahis
because he said it impressed his barbarian followers.
"Just a few phrases," he said,
"but it's quite easy to command them. First you point to the objective and pat them on the back and smile. Generally that's enough to start them, for they really like fighting. But if it isn't you give them a kick or a smack
with your stick and off they go."

These Partisans fulfil in the mountains the role that light cavalry used to play in the Napoleonic wars. They go ahead of the French troops and establish contact with the enemy. If they meet with resistance they generally retire. Their principal defect is an incorrigible greed for loot.
Nothing fills them with the spirit of the offensive so much as the sight of a few sheep or goats on the horizon. From an advanced post I witnessed a regular engagement for the possession of a small flock between two groups of Partisans, both French, in which one man was killed. They are exactly like beaters at an English shoot, of all ages—from fifteen to sixty. In the intervals of fighting they build a fire out of dried grass and squat round drinking tea like a party of church workers at the vicarage.
When not fighting they pitch their black tents of camels' hair close by the French lines and live packed like sardines inside them with their families and wives, who are quite prepared to take their husbands' lunch up to the firing line
and encourage their military ardour with a succession of shrill squeals.

Mixed up with these amateur troops are native gendarmes known as Moughaznis. They also are paid by the day, but are better disciplined, generally having a horse of their own, and wear a blue burnous as a uniform. Then come another Moroccan formation called Goumiers. They are engaged for a year, and each Goumier consists of three sections of infantry with one of cavalry. They wear their own native dress, look after their own supplies and are commanded by French officers and sous-officiers, who share the hard life of their men. Moroccan riflemen are the next instalment of this heterogeneous army. They are fine troops, well drilled and good fighters, for it is proverbial in North Africa that its most warlike inhabitants live on the west coast.
They say here that "a Moroccan is a soldier. An Algerian is a man.
A Tunisian is a coward."

These Moorish infantry march
as fast up mountains as on the flat,
and think nothing of covering forty miles a day. Their French officers, even though they are more athletic young lieutenants fresh from the Rugby field, cannot keep up with them, so these are the only regiments in which subalterns are mounted. When Moroccan riflemen were first stationed in the maritime Alps region of the south of France, the French Alpine Rifles—the famous Chasseurs Alpins—who are born and bred
on the edge of precipices, were told off to show the Moors how to climb mountains. The first day an easy route was chosen and the French instructors were left far behind. Next day a stiff rock climb was ordered and ropes were served out. The Moroccan soldiers inquired if these were for the purpose of tying bundles on their backs, and being told they were for safety said they would rather do without them, upon which they set off and scaled the steepest crags with such rapidity that they had pitched their bivouacs and camped for the night before the French mountaineers with their alpenstocks and ice-axes had reached the top.

Finally, as the iron core of this force, whose operations I am watching, comes the Foreign Legion, men whom stern training,
hard work and their own characters have made probably the best infantry soldiers in the world.
The Berber and his tricks of warfare are well known to the Legion, whose tactics are the result of a generation's experience of fighting in Morocco.

The Legion's plan is always the same—to occupy a ridge during the night and get itself entrenched
behind a stone wall before daylight
brings a Berber counter-attack.
Sometimes that wall has to be built by men lying flat on the ground and passing the stones from one to another, for any man who rose to his feet would fall at once to the mountain marksmen. Then when the parapet is complete and the Hotchkiss machine guns mounted,
it has to be held regardless of whether or not supplies of food and water can reach the new position. Most dangerous of all

The Very Idea!

WE DONE HER
WRONG

By Eddie Kelly, Bad Egg

TO-DAY we are a sick man. Our conscience is troubling us.

It all began with a hen.
Last night we went to bed
in our usual gay frame of mind, prepared to sleep the sleep of those who have honestly evaded the payment of their debts.

It was not to be.
Way down in the distant darkness a hen began to chuckle
to his or her mate. The monologue became a conversation,
and, as far as we could judge,
a smutty one.

We longed for a cat to quieten
the nagging creature for ever.

Sure enough, the hen had scarcely quietened down to plan his or her next day's work, when the romantic wail of a love-sick feline slattered the night.

After two hours we felt sorry for the hen. It was not until the witching hour had struck that we succeeded in extracting a cry of pain from the animal, in lieu of its pagan love song.

It limped off to leave the world to darkness. After memorising as clearly as possible the approximate position of two pairs of shoes, one hair brush, one cake of Lifebuoy
soap, and our false teeth, we sought
our pillow, conscious of a job well done.

The hours slipped by—three or four of them—until we suddenly awoke from a dream in which we had laid an egg.

We were still ruffling our feathers when we heard the hen
working itself up into an address on "The Success of Egg Laying and How to Win Through."

Every now and then he or she would pause for a moment, perhaps to emphasise with a peck some important point its sleepy companions had missed. Then it would break out again.

We became alarmed when we discovered ourself clucking softly
to ourself, and when we found ourself scratching a large hole in the mattress we made up our mind on the destiny of that particular fowl.

Came the dawn. Bleary-eyed and weary, we encountered the boy.

"Chung," we said firmly, "you have a hen at the bottom of the yard?"

We wondered at ourself for asking such an innane question. Chung looked puzzled.

"A hen, at the bottom of the yard," we repeated, more firmly,
pointing with a shaking forefinger
in the general direction of the doomed bird.

"Ah, he no come in yet," replied Chung, looking at the adjacent breakfast table.

We lifted our beak, and clucked
madly, ecstatically.

"Ah! Hen!" remarked Chung, in admiration.

"Chung, that bird must die," we said.

Chung uttered a terrible rasping
sound, and illustrated the particular ju-jitsu method he proposed to use. His eyes even kindled at the thought of the coming conflict.

We were tapping our third egg
on the head when a thought struck us.

"Does she do her bit, Chung?"
we asked, a trifle anxiously. Chung's English is about as good as our enthusiastic when we demonstrated the laying of an egg.

"The fellow you eat, him belong
same hen," he clucked maliciously.
We rose from the table, resolved
to go through with the business
regardless of consequences.

Our last glimpse of Chung saw him strangling a passive napkin
over his knee.

At breakfast next day we called Chung over to our table.

"What's this?" we asked, pointing to a thing like an ostrich egg, laid before us.

Chung wiped a tear from his eye.
"She lay him, Master. It was her last egg," he wept.

We rose from the table with a jump in our throat and hurried from the room.

A PUZZLE

To the girl or boy reader who works this out in three minutes, Uncle Eddie will award a great
clump on the right ear!
A farmer dies and leaves an estate to his three sons, consisting of seventeen cattle. The oldest son is left one-half of the estate; the second son is left one-third; and the third son is left one-ninth.
The executor, a neighbouring farmer, is a bit puzzled. To simplify matters he lends one of his own cattle to the estate. It is now all very simple. The first son gets his half (8); the second son gets a third (6); and the third gets one-ninth (2). This disposes of the original estate and the executor takes back the cattle he loaned.

PITTMAN SCHEME FOR SILVER RISE

DISCUSSION AT WHITE HOUSE PRESIDENT REMAINS NON-COMMITTAL MORE CODES SIGNED

Washington, Sept. 19. President Roosevelt to-day signed the codes of several industries, including that for transportation services, not including the railways.

It was stated by Senator Pittman after a meeting at the White House that the President was much better pleased with the progress of his recovery drive.

He believes, said the Senator, that the signing of the code may be regarded as the turning-point.

It is understood that Pittman's meeting with Mr. Franklin Roosevelt had concern with the proposal of Senator Pittman for the free coinage of silver, by which he suggested the price of silver could be raised by forty-one cents to 129 cents an ounce and G.S. 33,000,000 could be placed into circulation annually.

Pittman admitted that President Roosevelt was very non-committal in regard to the proposal.

SIR ALEXANDER GLEGG DEATH ANNOUNCED IN LONDON

CHAIRMAN OF BIBLE SOCIETY (Our Own Correspondent).

London, Sept. 19. The death has taken place of Sir Alexander Glegg, Chairman of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Sir Alexander, who was 85 years of age, at the time of his death, chairman of Messrs. Barry and Staines Linoleum Manufacturing Co., as well as director of Messrs. John Thornycroft Ltd.

Trained for marine engineering in Aberdeen, Sir Alexander was engaged in the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich on ammunition and torpedo work, and afterwards designed printing machinery which permitted printing to be done from a continuous web of paper.

He introduced into England aluminium as a medium for cooking food.

During the war he represented the Federation of Engineering Employers as a member on the Women's Wages Arbitration Board, and in 1915 was a member of the Metropolitan Ammunition Committee as representative of the British Engineers' Association.

He was Mayor of Wandsworth from 1905 to 1906 and at the time of his death was Vice-President of the Battersea Polytechnic.

UNREGISTERED MUI TSAI

MARRIED WOMAN FINED $50

Leung Shu-wah, a married woman, residing at No. 13, Star Street, 3rd floor, was summoned before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for keeping an unregistered mui tsai, and fined $50.

Sub-Inspector W. H. Fraser, of the S.C.A., said that the girl was visited as a result of a report from the Anti Mui Tsai Society. It was then found out that the girl had been presented to the defendant by her father about five years ago for $70. She did household work, but did not receive any wages, though at times she had been given some money. The defendant had three small sons, and on one occasion the girl had had a fight with one of these children and the defendant had chastised both of them. In fact, the boy had been given severe punishment. The girl was well nourished but wished to go back to her parents.

Mr. Peter Sin, representing the defendant, asked that a lenient view be taken of the case under the circumstances.

An Avro Type 637, a patrol and reconnaissance machine, to be employed in training at the new Flying School.

CASANOVA LOSES APPEAL

SCOPE OF NOISE ORDINANCE

NO GROUND FOR CONTENTION

Judgment in the appeal of the Casanova Dancing Institute against a conviction by Mr. Butters, Kowloon Magistrate, for causing a noise calculated to disturb a resident nearby was delivered by the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, in the Supreme Court this morning. The appeal was dismissed.

The appellant, Mr. Filomeno Eca da Silva, proprietor of the Dancing Institute, who was fined $25 at the Police Court hearing, was represented by Mr. Leo D'Almada, junior, instructed by Mr. Leo D'Almada, senior.

The appeal was heard ex parte in the absence of Mr. Hans J. Lühring, a merchant, living at 30, Hankow Road which is next door to the Casanova Institute.

Mr. Justice Lindell was absent from the Full Court this morning, the Chief Justice informing Counsel that his learned brother had asked him to say that he concurred with the Chief Justice's judgment.

THE JUDGMENT.

Delivering judgment, Mr. Justice Wood said:

The appellant was convicted summarily by a Magistrate in respect of noise permitted by him at 30 Hankow Road, Kowloon, on the 8th July, between 8.45 p.m. and 12 midnight, of an offence committed contrary to section 13 a.s.1 of the Summary Offences Ordinance (Ordinance No. 40 of 1932). The main contention submitted for him is that the language of the first four lines of this subsection (upon which portion of the sub-section the conviction is founded) is derived historically through various consolidations and revisions of the law from Ordinance No. 17 of 1844 which came into operation upon the 11th September, 1844.

The Court has taken time to consider the course of legislation. The original Ordinance as appears from its preamble, though the terms of the section itself are wide, was passed to suppress the nuisance of noise made by private watchmen and for that object alone.

SCOPE OF LAW.

It has been submitted here for the Appellant that more recent legislation by the correct rules of legal construction succeeds to this limitation and that the present charge which relates to the music of an orchestra is outside its scope. The Magistrate rejected this submission at the trial, and in my view, rightly rejected it. The scope of the section was extended by amendment of the law

CONTROL OF ARMS

CAPTAIN EDEN BACK IN LONDON

CABINET TO MEET

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs Captain Anthony Eden, reached London this afternoon by air from Paris where yesterday he had conversations with the French Premier.

One of the main purposes of his visit was to ascertain with more exactitude the views of the French Government in regard to their proposal for the regular supervision of armaments.

Captain Eden this afternoon reported to the Prime Minister and to-morrow's special meeting of the Cabinet will be fully informed on the substance of the Paris conversations.

Sir John Simon this evening left Balmoral where he has been Minister-in-attendance on His Majesty and will reach London in time for to-morrow's Cabinet.

It is quite possible that the Anglo-French talks will be resumed in a few days.

Yesterday's conversations in Paris are considered in official circles to have been very hopeful and to have definitely improved the prospects of the Disarmament Conference which will resume at Geneva next month.—British Wireless.

In Ordinance No. 23 of 1901 which took effect upon the 31st October 1901. The preamble of the original Ordinance was thereby repealed. The words of the section thus became general in their operation and were no longer confined to noise made by night watchmen.

UNSOUND OBJECTIONS.

It has been submitted here for Appellant that evidence in order to support this conviction must be sufficient also by itself to support an application in tort for an injunction. This objection also seems to me to be unsound. I agree that the evidence must be of such a character that it would be material in a claim for an injunction for a nuisance. But that it must be sufficient without other evidence to establish a right to an injunction before a conviction can be recorded is a contention which I do not accept. The Magistrate has directed himself rightly upon this point.

The suggestion made that the existence of a remedy by injunction precludes an aggrieved citizen from prosecuting for a nuisance of noise under this section is not worthy of serious consideration.

This Appeal must, in my opinion, be dismissed.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

SWEET IS THE BREATH OF PRAISE WHEN GIVEN BY THOSE WHOSE OWN HIGH MERIT CLAIMS THE PRAISE THEY GIVE.—Hannah More.

Indar Singh, a watchman, who was arrested in Feder Street for being drunk and disorderly, was fined $15 when he appeared before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning.

An accidental fall overboard from the s.s. Sheung Fat yesterday, resulted in Cheong Ka-mak being sent to the hospital suffering from the effects of immersion. He was rescued from the harbour by a seaman aboard the vessel.

Two cases of diphtheria with one death, nine cases of typhoid with two deaths (three imported), one case of meningitis with one death, and 52 deaths from tuberculosis, were reported to the local health authorities last week. On Monday, another two cases of typhoid were reported.

Mr. John P. Gardiner, Jr., who is associated with Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, arrived in the Colony from New York by the President Lincoln on Monday. Mr. Gardiner is an economist and has had considerable experience in economic research in the United States and Europe.

WHEAT PROBLEM

GOVT. POLICIES OUTLINED

TO AID PRICES

London, Sept. 19. The Wheat Advisory Committee continued its session to-day at the Foreign Office. The Committee discussed its function relative to the wheat agreement, and laid down certain lines of action for its secretary.

Statistics were made by the representatives of the various importing countries, including France and Germany, as to the way in which their Governments were modifying their agricultural policy along lines which might be expected to result in an improvement in the international outlook for wheat prices.

M. De Venat, representative of France, explained that although two successive bumper crops had resulted in a considerable exportable surplus, the French Government, through agreements to an increase in the use of wheat for animal feeding, and by decreasing the quantity of flour extracted from wheat, would be able to reduce their export annual figure which should have no appreciable effect upon world prices.

GERMANY'S POLICY.

Dr. Duering summed up Germany's agricultural policy respecting cereals as follows. Firstly the Government will not take any measures to increase the area sown with wheat or rye, but on the contrary is adopting policies, the effect of which will be to reduce the area sown to both grains. Secondly the recent exports of wheat from Germany will be off-set by imports of wheat during the present cereal year. Thirdly, the German Government believes that it can materially increase the consumption of wheat in Germany by reducing unemployment.

The possibilities in this direction are clearly indicated by the fact that during the past year, the consumption of wheat in Germany declined by nine million quintals, approximately 30,000,000 bushels, as a direct result of German workers eating potatoes at home instead of taking a bread lunch to their work.

BIG MEETING NEXT WEEK.

The Committee adjourned until November 27. The meeting between Russia and the four chief exporting countries, Canada, Argentina, Australia and United States, to consider wheat quotas, will be held next week.—British Wireless.

ELEVEN STOWAWAYS

Gaol Already Too Full to House Them

"I think we ought to send these people back to Swatow," said Detective Sergeant Hill at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning in charging 11 men before Mr. Wynne-Jones with stowing away on the B. and S. steamer Kingsman from Swatow to Hongkong.

"The Company should have seen to it that everybody who boarded the ship at Swatow had a ticket instead of finding out after the ship had left. The result is that we in Hongkong have to do all the work," added Sergeant Hill.

Mr. Wynne-Jones.—What do you want me to do with them? Fine them $5 or seven days?

Sergeant Hill.—Well, the usual fine is $50 or a month.

Mr. Wynne-Jones.—The gaol is full already!

Sergeant Hill.—I think it can be arranged for these people to be sent back at the Company's expense.

Mr. Wynne-Jones.—Can it? Then I'll remand the case for 24 hours for you to find out.

STILL IMPROVING

ENGLAND'S FINANCIAL POSITION

London, Sept. 19. The latest Treasury returns show that the ordinary revenue for the current financial year up to September 18, amounted to £267,692,185. At the corresponding date of last year, the amount stood at £263,890,000.

The ordinary expenditure to date for the current year totalled £307,385,272 which was more than £32,000,000 less than the total ordinary expenditure at the corresponding date of last year.—British Wireless.

MACKINTOSH'S LTD

CHEVROLET STANDARD SIX

Offering you all the quality, dependability, performance and comfort you would expect from the world's largest builder of automobiles.

Do you wonder that it's causing so much comment? A CHEVROLET, with everything the name stands for, A CHEVROLET enclosed car at the lowest price in history. Naturally, it has captured the spotlight. Every man and woman interested in motor cars is talking about it, exclaiming over it. OVER THE PRICE, of course, because $500 is certainly something to exclaim about. But even more enthusiastically over what the price buys:

FISHER coachwork. FISHER wood-and-steel body construction. FISHER No Draft Ventilation. Safety plate glass in the windshield. A smooth six-cylinder engine. A SILENT-SECOND TRANSMISSION. A chassis that's full-size. And modern, streamlined styling that instantly proclaims to the world—"This is a fine, QUALITY automobile."

And indeed it is. Every inch and every ounce of it. A CHEVROLET in basic worthiness. A CHEVROLET in dependability. A CHEVROLET in engineering and craftsmanship. Come and see for yourself.

SURVEY OF HOME FOOTBALL FROM ALL ANGLES

ASTONISHING RESULTS LAST WEEK

HIGH TIME TEAMS BEGAN TO SETTLE DOWN

INSIDE INFORMATION WHICH SHOULD PROVE VALUABLE

(By "The Pilgrim").

A keen duel with chance awaits the thoughtful prophet in Saturday's First Division matches in England football.

There is scarcely a result which can be forecast with any degree of certainty in this section and if clubs run true to form there should be a glut of draws. There were numerous matches last week where the points were divided and there also were many away wins. The latter applied chiefly to the Northern Section of the Third Division where I expect an equal number of home wins this week.

Huddersfield have justified the expectations of their management and at the moment of writing hold the head of the Senior competition.

Towards the end of last season it was not easy to recognise the Huddersfield team owing to the many new players it embraced, and the form shown was a fine surprise. Indeed, one seemed justified in deciding that Clem Stephenson had solved the problem of finding the young players. Attention has been drawn to the exceedingly clever way in which the team has been recast, and it appears as if the time has now arrived when there will be an abundant reward.

An experienced player in Bottrell, the Wolverhampton Wanderers inside forward, was signed on to ensure, I presume, steadiness in the attack.

FAITH IN YOUTH.

McLean remains, but I think the club will for the most part be content to put their faith in their young champions.

It is good news that Roughton is at last thoroughly sound again and that he has resumed his notable partnership with Goodall.

Leicester City appear to be well satisfied with the players who finished last season with five victories in eight games, for the only notable acquisition is Laurie Edwards, the Derby County trainer for many years, who is now in charge of the training at Filbert-street.

The view of the officials is that much of the team's lack of success last season was due to having no responsible man in charge of the players, on account of the absence through ill-health of the trainer, Ernest Nixon. Edwards had so much success with the Rams that the management's hope that he will follow suit with the City seems about to bear fruit.

A season ago Mr. Peter Hodge introduced half a dozen youngsters to the club, and towards the end of the season drafted three into the senior team. Those were Paterson, Maw and Liddle, all forwards, and it is hoped with the combination of Adecock and Leach to have an attack this season equal to lifting the team to a prominent position in the league table.

The half-back line has been strengthened, with Heywood again as pivot, Smith, right-half, and Ritchie, left-half.

A new player in this department is P. Grosvenor, who comes from Everton, and is a brother of the Birmingham player.

A. Jones of Clapton Orient, a right or left-back, is the only newcomer in the defence with any league reputation. A. Wood, the Scot who came in towards the end of last season, is the ideal partner for Black at back, as Osborne has not been retained.

In goal is McLaren who was secured from St. Johnstone last April, his name, James, being on the open-transfer list.

Twenty-seven players are on the club's books. Gates at both Hillsborough and Bramall Lane dwindled alarmingly last season, and although unemployment was acute it is hard to believe that this was entirely responsible for the falling off of public patronage.

The Wednesday as one of the best teams of the season deserved much better support and I hope it is now forthcoming. It is no secret that the Arsenal feared them as rivals for the championship, more perhaps than Aston Villa, but at the crucial stage Blacking's injury kept him out of the side for many weeks and the services of Leach were lost.

A SERIOUS BLOW.

I think the loss of Leach was the worst blow for while the club were strong in reserve backs, they had not another centre-half of Leach's commanding strength. Bratley was obtained and he was expected to be pitched in as a young player to be pitched forked into First Division football at such an important time.

So the Wednesday, when it was necessary that they should be at their best, fell away a little and finished third on the list. But they are making another big and successful effort even though they have to depend almost entirely on last season's players.

The Wednesday, however, are very fortunate in having so many young players on the fringe of first-class football. Some of them, in fact, can, as we have occasionally seen, now go into the League side and fully justify themselves. Beeson seems to be established as Blacking's partner, and if there were any suggestion that the transfer of Catlin might be obtained, I think there would be a queue of applicants outside the office.

Another young player who is almost ready for promotion is Burrows, the wing half. I think he is going to be extremely good.

Once or twice I thought the Wednesday did not obtain the same service as formerly from the wing forwards, Hooper and Rimmer, but this may have been because the inside men, Burgess and Starling, kept the play too close.

The long cross pass from one wing to the other, which used to be such a marked feature of Wednesday football, has not been exploited very often. In fact the tendency was for the inside men to take the ball to their partners, and Hooper and Rimmer did not get much room in which to manoeuvre.

CLASSIC STYLE.

Portsmouth have established their own style and I hope they will not be persuaded to depart from it. It is one of the few remaining links with the past when wing half-backs went up and worked in triangular formation with the forwards.

Once or twice last season there was a tendency to get away from this style, and when attention was drawn to the change it was said "clever football will never get you anywhere unless it produces goals." It has got Portsmouth a name as a scientific team and I should have thought that that was worth preserving.

It is unfortunately true that a team to-day must think of the results as well as the style of their football, but I believe the idea that expediency to obtain goals is justified to be entirely mistaken. The best football in all circumstances must always be the best.

Half-backs capable of working the ball are indispensable to the Portsmouth style, and while Thackeray and Nichol will no doubt carry on in their excellent way for some time, I hope other players are being prepared to maintain their style. This is a very important safeguard.

Nottingham Forest have concentrated on strengthening the attack. So far the efforts of the committee have not proved very successful, only four goals being registered in six games. Hopes of promotion have been rekindled by the acquisition of Harry Race, the Manchester City inside-left, and Len Barry, the clever outside-left, whom Leicester City secured from Nottingham in 1927.

Although the latter is nearing the veteran stage he should be capable of rendering Forest good service for at least a season.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S WHAT

Pithy Pars Cleaned From a Number of Headquarters

(By "The Pilgrim").

IN Southampton and Swansea Town we have two more good "homers." In fact the Second Division seems comprised of teams which do not come up to "home" standards when playing away.

YOUNGSTERS come and go at Fratton Park, but there are not likely to be any material changes in the senior side, at any rate at the commencement of the season. Nineteen of the players who were with Portsmouth last season have been re-engaged, and they include the whole of the first eleven.

IT has been no part of Portsmouth's policy to go after sensational close season "captures." The directors prefer in the main to try out young players of promise.

IT is most unusual for a club of the standing of Everton to enter on a season without having signed on a new player, but the Cupholders have a staff of 32, nearly all of whom might go into the League side, and they seem well equipped to meet an emergency.

IT is not the Everton way to bother very much with young players. They prefer the man of experience and are prepared to pay for him. Last year they spent £10,000 on two, Goldard and Cook, and I imagine that this sum is the maximum they can afford in a season unless they are to draw on their reserves.

BUT if it should be proved that extra players are required

MRS. BESANT ILL

PROMINENT THEOSOPHIST GROWING WEAKER

Madras, Sept. 19. Mrs. Annie Besant, veteran Theosophist leader and one-time prominent agitator for self-government in India, is seriously ill.

She has been confined to her bed for a month and her strength is diminishing.—Reuter.

Born in 1847, Mrs. Besant has had a most remarkable career. She was brought up in the Anglican Church, married in 1867 but separated from her husband, a clergyman, in 1873. Subsequently she became a member of the Fabian party and then, through her contacts with the Russian mystic, Mme. Blavatsky, she joined the Theosophical Society.

She became the acknowledged leader of the movement in 1891 but in the following year removed her activities to India, founding the Central Hindu College in Benares in 1898.

Although for a year she was a staunch Indian nationalist, she eventually cut herself adrift from the movement.

It was she who led the movement for preparation for the coming of a new Messiah.

The "Y" defence was assisted by an Indian soldier in place of Murphy at right back, while A. E. P. Guest, who usually plays at centre half, played full back for the Saints, and A. S. Bliss filling his position played a hard game.

Exchanges opened at a fast pace and this was kept up to the final whistle, the Saints forward line combining well. Gilchrist, Mackay and E. F. Fincher showing much understanding. Mackay gave the Saints the lead and before the interval Fincher added the second goal with a fast shot. In the second half both goal-keepers, R. H. Wong (Saints) and Shields (Y.M.C.) cleared hard shots admirably. Alternate rushes featured the play, and Lam-mert found the net for the "Y" and reduced the deficit. Towards the end the Saints forward attacked heavily, but good work by McLellan and Selk held them at bay. Shields saving brilliantly from Fincher. White and Guest proved a steady last line of defence for the winners.

Team: St. Andrew's—R. H. Wong; A. E. P. Guest, E. H. P. White; E. MacNider, A. E. Bliss, F. A. Broad-bridge; N. A. Barlow, J. T. K. Gilchrist, N. A. E. Mackay, E. F. Fincher, M. Wall.

Y.M.C.A.—S. Shields—Indian, E. F. Selk; R. Lang, D. McLellan, G. H. P. White, L. W. Mackay, S. Fowler, W. J. Brown, G. P. Vannier, A. Guest.

The Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Club will be holding their seventh annual General meeting at Lane Crawford's on Thursday, September 28, 1933, at 6.10 p.m.

Triangular Cricket Interport

MALAYA SENDING TEAM IN NOV.

According to an announcement made by the Hongkong Cricket Club to-day, there will definitely be a triangular cricket interport this coming November between Hongkong, Shanghai, and Malaya.

Advices have been received that Malaya are sending a team to Hongkong by the s.s. Chitral which arrives here on November 2. The team will remain until the 18th of the month, returning by the s.s. Comorin.

Shanghai are expected to arrive in the Colony on November 10 and will leave after a stay of 12 days. The last triangular cricket interport was in 1929, when Hongkong won the series beating both Shanghai and Malaya.

The Hongkong Cricket Club Committee will meet to-morrow at 5.30 p.m. when fixtures and arrangements for the visitors will be discussed.

"SHADOW TRIAL"

COMMUNIST'S SON GIVES EVIDENCE

London, Sept. 19. The "shadow trial," conducted in London, of those accused of implication in the Reichstag fire, has finished with the taking of public evidence. The judges will publish the findings on Wednesday.

The witnesses at to-day's session included the fourteen-and-a-half year old son of Torgler, the Communist leader, who is awaiting trial at Leipzig.

Young Torgler said that his father's wrists had borne chain marks when he last saw him, four months ago.

Eminent lawyers of seven countries assembled in a London hotel to conduct the unofficial "trial" of the men charged with having set fire to the Reichstag towards the end of February.

The tribunal includes the Italian ex-Premier, Signor Nitelli; the renowned French lawyer, M. Clavier; a son of the Swedish ex-Premier, Dr. Brander; Dr. Huber, a former vice-President of Switzerland; and the American lawyer, Mr. Garfield Hawes.

The tribunal claims to be in possession of all essential data and hopes to publish its findings on September 21 when the trial of the prisoners opens before the Supreme Court at Leipzig.—Reuter.

AUSTRIAN CRISIS

HEIMWEHR DEMANDING NEW MINISTER

Vienna, Sept. 19. The political crisis in Austria is accentuated in consequence of a meeting of the Heimwehr leaders at Innsbruck to-day, which formulated demands including the request for suppression of Defence Minister Vaugoin by Mayor Fey, a powerful political figure, with whom Chancellor Dollfuss has not always been able to agree.

However, it is possible that Chancellor Dollfuss will drop both Fey and Starhemberg and rule alone as a virtual dictator.

Far from contemplating retirement, Chancellor Dollfuss has arranged to go to Geneva at the end of the week.—Reuter.

ANOTHER POST.

MAYOR WU GIVEN MILITARY OFFICE

Nanking, Sept. 19. The Executive Yuan this morning appointed General Wu To-chon, Mayor of Greater Shanghai, to the concurrent post of acting garrison commander of the Shanghai-Woosung area.

General Chiang Ting-wen has been appointed Field Commander of the Northern Route Bandit Suppression forces in Kwangtung, Fukien, Hunan, Hupeh and Kiangsi.—Reuter.

LADIES HOCKEY.

The Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Club will be holding their seventh annual General meeting at Lane Crawford's on Thursday, September 28, 1933, at 6.10 p.m.

TEST MATCHES LIKELY

MUST PLAY SAYS EX-MANAGER SMITH

THREE REASONS

The Test Matches between England and Australia will take place in England next year after all, it seems.

Here are three good reasons for this assumption.

1. The Australian Board of Control have appointed a sub-committee to recommend a manager for the Australian side. They are also reported to be in communication with shipping companies on the question of the booking of passages.

2. The Surrey County Cricket Club are offering tickets for sale to members for the final play to-a-finish Test at the Oval.

3. Mr. Sydney Smith, manager of the Australian team which toured England in 1912 and 1926, says a team "has to go."

Then there is the report that Jardine will never again captain England against Australia and that Larwood may never bowl fast again.

Will this affect the issue? The Surrey County Club and Mr. Smith qualified their confidence slightly.

GIANTS WIN PENNANT

AND CREATE NEW RECORD

YANKEE STAGE RECOVERY

New York, Sept. 19. New York Giants have clinched the National Baseball League pennant as a result of their defeat of Pittsburgh on Monday, and have established a new Major League record by winning it for the thirteenth time.

Washington Senators are virtually winners of the American pennant, requiring but two more victories to achieve the performance.

As, however, they were blanked out to-day, and the New York Yankees won a double header, there is just a chance that the holders of the World Series will stage a sensational twelfth hour recovery.

Scores as cabled by Reuter were:

THE HARBOUR RACES.

Ladies' And Open Events Being Held Together.

ON OCTOBER 12 NEXT.

Unlike former years, only one day is to be set aside for the annual harbour races organised by the Victoria Recreation Club, the committee this year introducing an innovation which should prove equally popular.

It has been decided that both the ladies' event and the Open race be held at the same time, and that they be decided on October 12 next.

The ladies will be given a quarter of an hour start to allow for the winners to arrive before the first man. The winner of the Open event will then finish before the stragglers in the ladies' event reach the winning post.

Entries will be accepted up to practically the last day.

Police Gala.

The heats in preparation for the Police Gala on Saturday were decided yesterday at the V. R. C. bath under the direction of Sub-Inspector Hunt assisted by Sergt. Clarke.

NEW RUNNING RECORD

OVER 20 MILES IN TWO HOURS

Glasgow, Sept. 19.

Ernest Harper, the well known distance runner, to-day broke the world's two-hour running record by covering a distance of 20 miles, 1,604 yards, two feet and six inches.

The previous record was established by H. Green in 1918, when he covered 20 miles 952 yards.—Reuter.

The annual general meeting of the Civil Service Cricket Club will take place to-day at 5.30 p.m. in the Club hall at Happy Valley.

least a couple of seasons whilst Race is only just in his prime.

In other directions Forest have left well alone, the half-back division, one of the best in the country, remaining unshaken, and Pugh, whilst Thompson and Bell automatically shoulder the responsibilities at full back, and there is no need to look beyond Dexter for the position of goalkeeper.

Brentford have concentrated on their defence but have managed to score 18 times. They obtained an extra back in Ashley from Southport and two half-backs, McClure, of Everton, and W. S. Smith, of Sheffield Wednesday.

Of the trio, McClure is the best known. He is of the strong, hardy type who should serve Brentford well. At one time it seemed that he might make a permanent position for himself in the Everton side, but he just lacked that essential touch of class.

The Brentford players were bound to find their new football harder and they may not settle down until they have accustomed themselves to the greater speed with which they have to manoeuvre the ball. This is a difficulty which most promoted teams are encountering.

The following will represent the Central British Association in a friendly hockey match against the Incomites of the home ground, King's Park, at 6.15 p.m. sharp to-morrow: G. B. Gurevitch; E. L. # Invest in Afforestation

---

PINE

N. Z. Perpetual Forests, Limited, offers you the following investment opportunity:

For every investment of £30, on terms, you become owner of a freehold acre of land, fully planted with pine trees, the title of which is held by The Australasian Bondholders' Trust Co., Ltd., Trustees for Investors. The estimated value of the timber is £250 after approximately 12 years, if marketed as pulpwood. Moreover, you are fully protected as to safety. Write or phone us for further details.

THE world is using up its timber supply much faster than it is being replenished.

For this reason, the pine (most important of the commercial softwoods) has an assured future.

Afforestation is, indeed, a splendid investment.

HAVANA MOBS SEIZE MILLS: SITUATION GROWS WORSE

THE PRESIDENT RESIGNS

BRITON MADE A PRISONER

Havana, Sept. 19. Professor Grau San Martin has tendered his resignation to the Revolutionary Junta.

A large crowd is now parading through the streets of Havana cheering Dr. San Martin, and it is learned that the Junta is not yet decided on whether to accept his resignation.

The general situation is considered to have definitely worsened. While troops, accompanied by students are searching revolutionaries, one Havana mob which shows strong Communist tendencies has seized several mills, and grave fears are felt for the safety of people in scattered mills as it is feared that the Government forces are not sufficient to protect them.

BRITON A PRISONER

An Englishman named Hughes is reported to be a prisoner in a mill at Soledad, of which he is the manager.

More American warships have been sent to Antillo, Manzanillo, Cienfuegos and Puerto Padre.

The situation is felt in foreign circles to be ominous.—Reuter.

Woman Mayor "Cleans Up The Town"

ATTEMPT TO REMOVE HER FROM OFFICE

Issaquah, Washington. "Petitcoat rule" was put to the test when a petition for removal from office was filed against Mrs. Stella Alexander, the town's first woman Mayor. Mrs. Alexander, however, decided to fight her opponents.

"I could save myself a lot of trouble by resigning," she said. "The office doesn't pay me anything and it means a lot of work. But I'm not going to quit. I have the welfare of the town at heart."

At the last Council meeting she summarily dismissed a town marshal and appointed another in his stead, ejected a councillor from the town hall by threatening him with a chair, and blocked the efforts of a councillor-elect to take part in the meeting.

These acts were described in the petition as constituting malfeasance or misfeasance.

"One of the other things at the root of the trouble," Mrs. Alexander explained, "is that a lot of women are jealous of me. They don't like to see another woman in office."

"But the biggest complaint they have against me is that I've been cleaning up the town."—Reuter.

CANTON RICE TAX STRONG PROTEST BY MERCHANTS

Canton, Sept. 20. Canton rice merchants are agitating against the imposition of a special tax on imported rice. Besides protestation to the authorities, they have announced their decision to suspend importation of foreign rice until satisfaction is obtained in the settlement of the case with the Government.

Although the Canton Financial Department has promised to make certain alterations in the regulation for the imposition of the tax including the assessment of tax rates as ad valorem instead of $1.00 for each picul, the rice merchants are pressing for its complete abolition.—Central News Agency.

H.M.S. SUFFOLK ARRIVES FROM HOME

Greetings From Other Ships in Port

H.M.S. Suffolk arrived here at 7.15 this morning after re-commission and refit. Her new commander is Capt. Errol Mannors, who was formerly attached to H.M.S. Victory at the Portsmouth Depot, and who was appointed Captain in June 1932.

As soon as the Suffolk had tied up to No. 3 Quay the following message was scannaphored from the officers and ship's companies in port: Welcome to Hongkong. Hope your stay on the Station will be a most successful one.

The Suffolk replied: "Very many thanks for your kind signal."

ANOTHER FLOOD?

PREDICTION OF DR. GRABAU

OCEANIC SIGNS

Washington.

The earth is due for another flood—or a whole series of them—if the past behaviour of the oceans continues in the future, according to a theory advanced to the International Geological Congress here.

In an address, Dr. A. W. Grabau of Peking, China, said that since as far back as the geological age known as the Cambrian, more than 500,000,000 years ago, when life was just getting its start on earth, the level of the sea has periodically risen and fallen in a regular rhythm. He called it the "pulsation theory."

The cause of these periodic floods is not known with certainty, but it may be linked up with the activity of radio-active substances like radium in the interior of the earth.

This radio-activity probably generates heat, some scientists believe, and there is evidence that the heat may escape at intervals by a "blowing off steam" process that may have something to do with causing the ocean floods.

Geologists have long known that the oceans have partially flooded the continents many times in the earth's past, but many had held the theory that this was due to sinking of the continents.

Dr. Grabau, however, said all evidence indicates that the rise and fall of sea level every few million years is the real cause of the floods. Some areas of the continents have risen and fallen but this was only secondary to the ocean movements, he said.—Reuter.

A REVERSIBLE WAISTCOAT

MAN'S LATEST FAD

New York. A reversible waistcoat, the latest fad in masculine attire, was exhibited here at the first international men's style show recently.

The garment, by its ability to be turned at will, reminded one of the old "dickie" reversible shirtfront.

It was black and single breasted on one side, and on the other double-breasted and white in colour. The exhibits included several from England, among them olive whipcord raincoats with raglan sleeves and all-round belts, riding breeches of shepherd's grey plaid and some white tennis shorts.

One of the most interesting English exhibits was a collection of abbreviated swimming trunks of mercerized cotton or wool.

They were blue in colour, had no legs and were in fact little more than waistbands.—Reuter.

A DISTINGUISHED SOLDIER

DEATH OF COL. W. B. DUNLOP

(Our Own Correspondent).

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1901. Received, September 20, 1.31 p.m.)

London, Sept. 19. The death is announced of Colonel William Bruce Dunlop, C.B.E., D.S.O., O.B.E., at the age of 56.

Colonel Dunlop was late Director of Contracts, Army Headquarters, Simla, prior to which he saw considerable overseas service. He served in Tibet from 1903 to 1905 and was mentioned in despatches, whilst he was also with the 14th Expeditionary Force (1911-12), being again mentioned in despatches.

During the Great War he served in the East African Expeditionary Force, during which he was mentioned in despatches, awarded the D.S.O., and raised to Lt. Colonel.

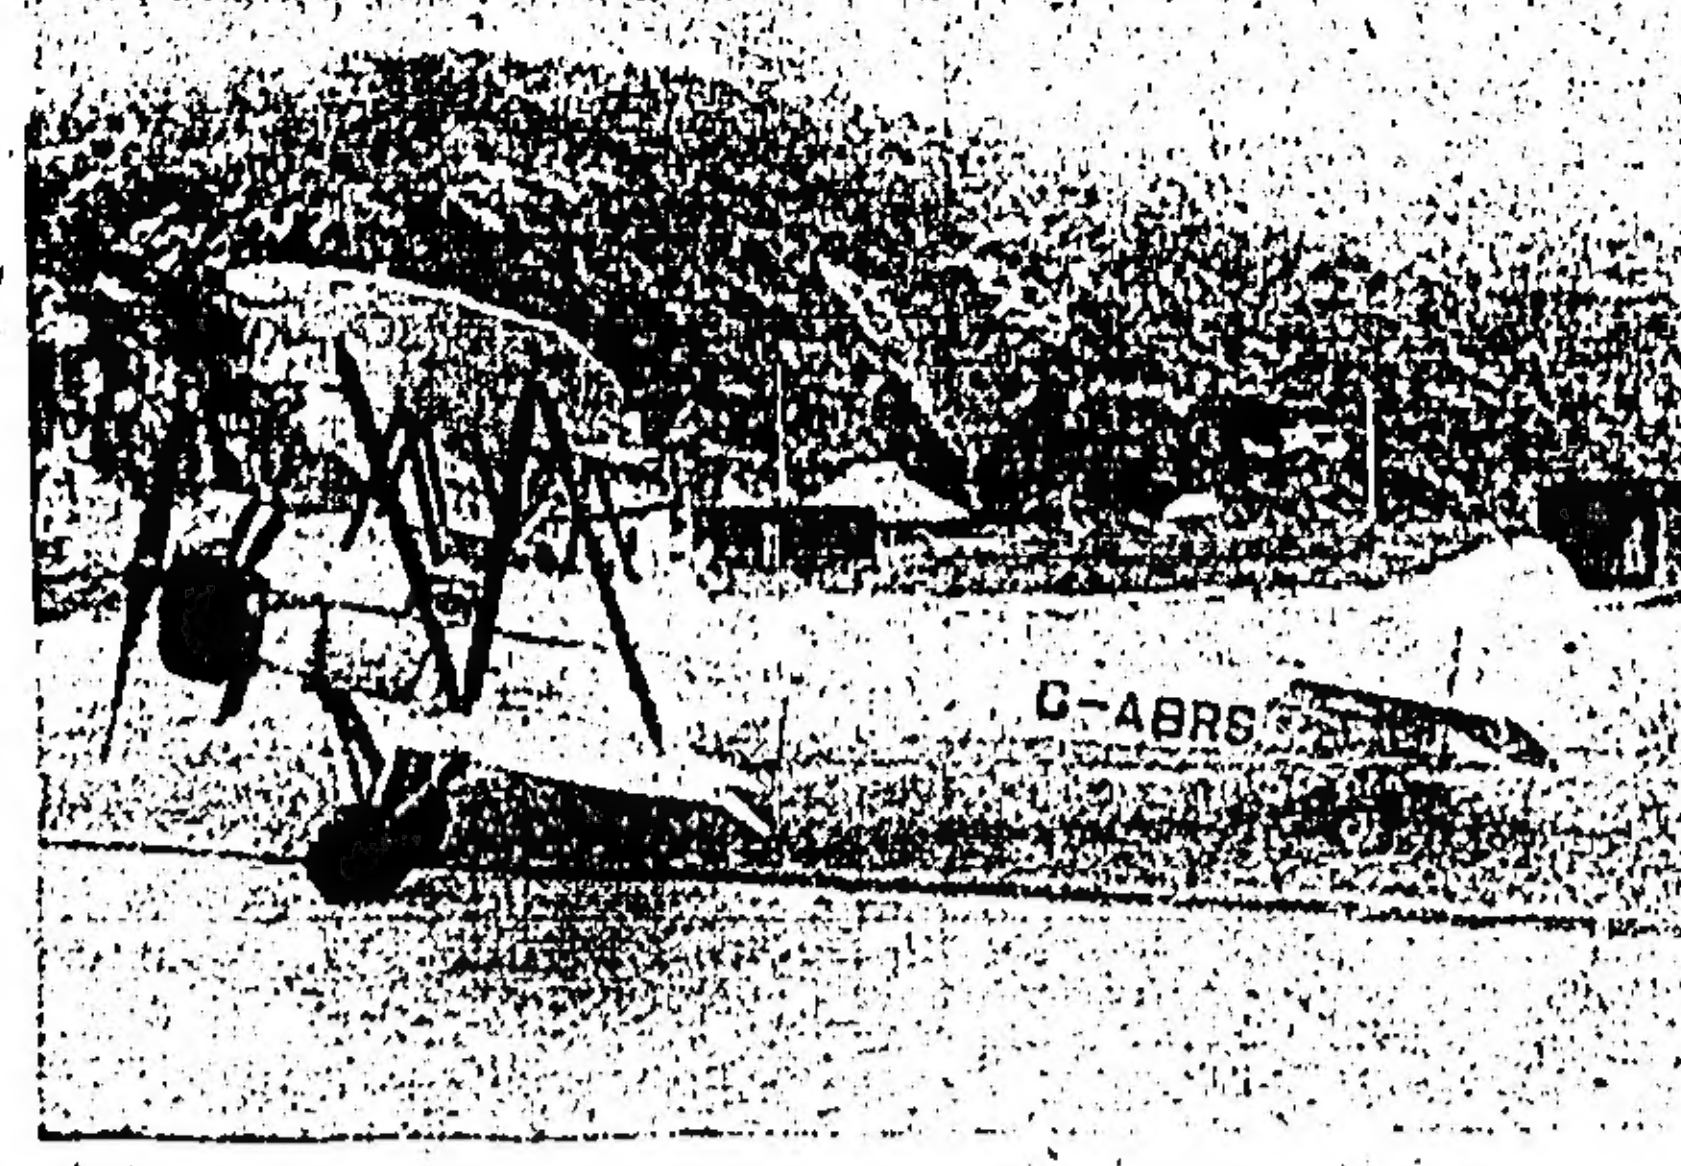

He was in the Afghan War in 1919, and decorated with the O.B.E., retiring in 1930.

and before eleven o'clock it was obvious that a small disturbance was approaching. The centre passed to the East of the Pratras, producing a strong gale veering from N.N.W. to S.S.W. The lowest barometer reading was 29.35.

The disturbance at 6 o'clock this morning was in a position less than 120 miles to the east of Gap Rock, moving N.N.W. leading to the inference that it would enter the coast to the east of Hongkong.

CHANGES COURSE. It continued on its N.N.W. track until nine o'clock, when observations indicated that it had changed direction, and appeared to be approaching the Colony. It was stated to be about 60 miles to the E.S.E.

SMALL DISTURBANCE. The Pratras commenced to send observations at 9 p.m. last night.

An Avro Cadet of the type to be employed in training pilots at the new Flying Training School to be established by the Far Eastern Aviation Company.

OPIUM INSIDE PORTMANTEAUS

SMUGGLER CAUGHT ON PRES. LINCOLN

The maximum fine of $5,000 or a year was imposed on Leung Hoi, a coolie who was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with possessing 976 taels of non-Government prepared opium.

Chief Preventive Officer, Butler stated that defendant was arrested on the gang-way of the President Lincoln by an Indian watchman who saw him carrying three portmanteaus on board.

The watchman became suspicious when he felt the weight of the portmanteaus, and with the authority of the master of the ship, they were opened. The opium was found concealed inside.

CROWN JEWELS SALVAGED?

MERIDA'S FORTUNE RECOVERED

Norfolk, Virginia.

Capt. H. L. Bowdoin's treasure hunting expedition off the Virginia Coast has reported to headquarters that the purser's office safe of the long-submerged steamship Merida which has sunk 20 years ago in a collision has been brought to the decks of the salvage ship Salvor.

The crown jewels of the ill-fated Emperor Maximilian of Mexico are said to be on board the Merida.

"We know nothing of what the safe contains," said one representative here, "but the purser's office adjoining the strong room is believed by the expedition leaders to contain more than $4,000,000 in gold bullion and 17 tons of silver valued at approximately $200,000.

Captain Bowdoin, Master of the Salvor, has spent more than two years preparing to bring the Merida's treasure from the bottom of the Atlantic.—Reuter.

BEER KILLING NIGHT CLUBS

MIRACLE WORKED BY HONEST 3.2

"SPEAKEASIES" TOUGH TIME

"When prohibition goes out temperance will come into its own," said Edward P. Mulrooney, chairman of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

"Temperance made progress in this country before prohibition. Prohibition made us forget about temperance, but soon we'll forget about prohibition."

The speakeasy and night-club era is crumbling under the onslaught of 3.2 beer and will be less than dust with the legitimization of liquor, as Mr. Mulrooney sees it.

"The fact that Harlem is giving up its gin is an example of the miracle worked by honest beer," Mr. Mulrooney said. "My scouts tell me that the coloured people up there are drinking beer in preference to hard stuff. In this they are following the example of the white folk. Less gin, and more beer is a victory for law and order."

BEER WANTED.

"I hear the speakeasies around town are having a tough time. Their customers want beer, and there's not as much profit in that as there is in whiskey."

"The restaurants are getting a lot of the beer business. However, they'd rather sell coffee than beer—there's more profit in coffee."

The patronage that formerly went to speakeasies and night clubs is drifting back to the restaurants and hotels, and Mr. Mulrooney is well pleased. The hotels inform him that since 3.2 per cent beer arrived there has been a noticeable drop in the number of flasks carried into dining rooms and abandoned when emptied. The hotels also are having less trouble with the type of guests who drank liquor in his room and ruined the furnishings in playfulness or carelessness.

REPEAL IN DECEMBER?

Mr. Mulrooney confidently expects the Eighteenth Amendment to be repealed by December, and he thinks the New York State Legislature should pass liquor control legislation in January to supplement the present beer control law.

"When will the public get that big nickel glass of beer that was promised before beer was legalized?" Mr. Mulrooney was asked.

"I supposed the law of supply and demand will take care of that," he answered. "When there's an oversupply of beer, prices may come down. As it is now, brewers are not only unable to catch up with the local demand but are shipping carloads into the Southern States that sanction beer but have no breweries."—Reuter.

ROOSEVELT'S TEN COMMANDMENTS

FOR AMERICA'S BENEFIT

THOU SHALT NOT

Washington, D.C.

Here are "the Ten Commandments of Roosevelt's 'New Deal'" according to the U.S. Assistant Secretary of State:

1—Thou shalt not live beyond thy means.

2—Thou shalt not lose confidence in thyself.

3—Thou shalt not make Mammon thy God, but neither shalt thou be unmindful of the monetary system lest it destroy thee.

4—Thou shalt not forget that when thy price level is achieved, the layer on the road to prosperity is stabilization.

5—Thou shalt not make gold thy God but thy servant.

6—Thou shalt not permit the unemployment of thy people well beloved.

7—Thou shalt not fail to manage well and rationalize thy industry and stimulate and encourage it.

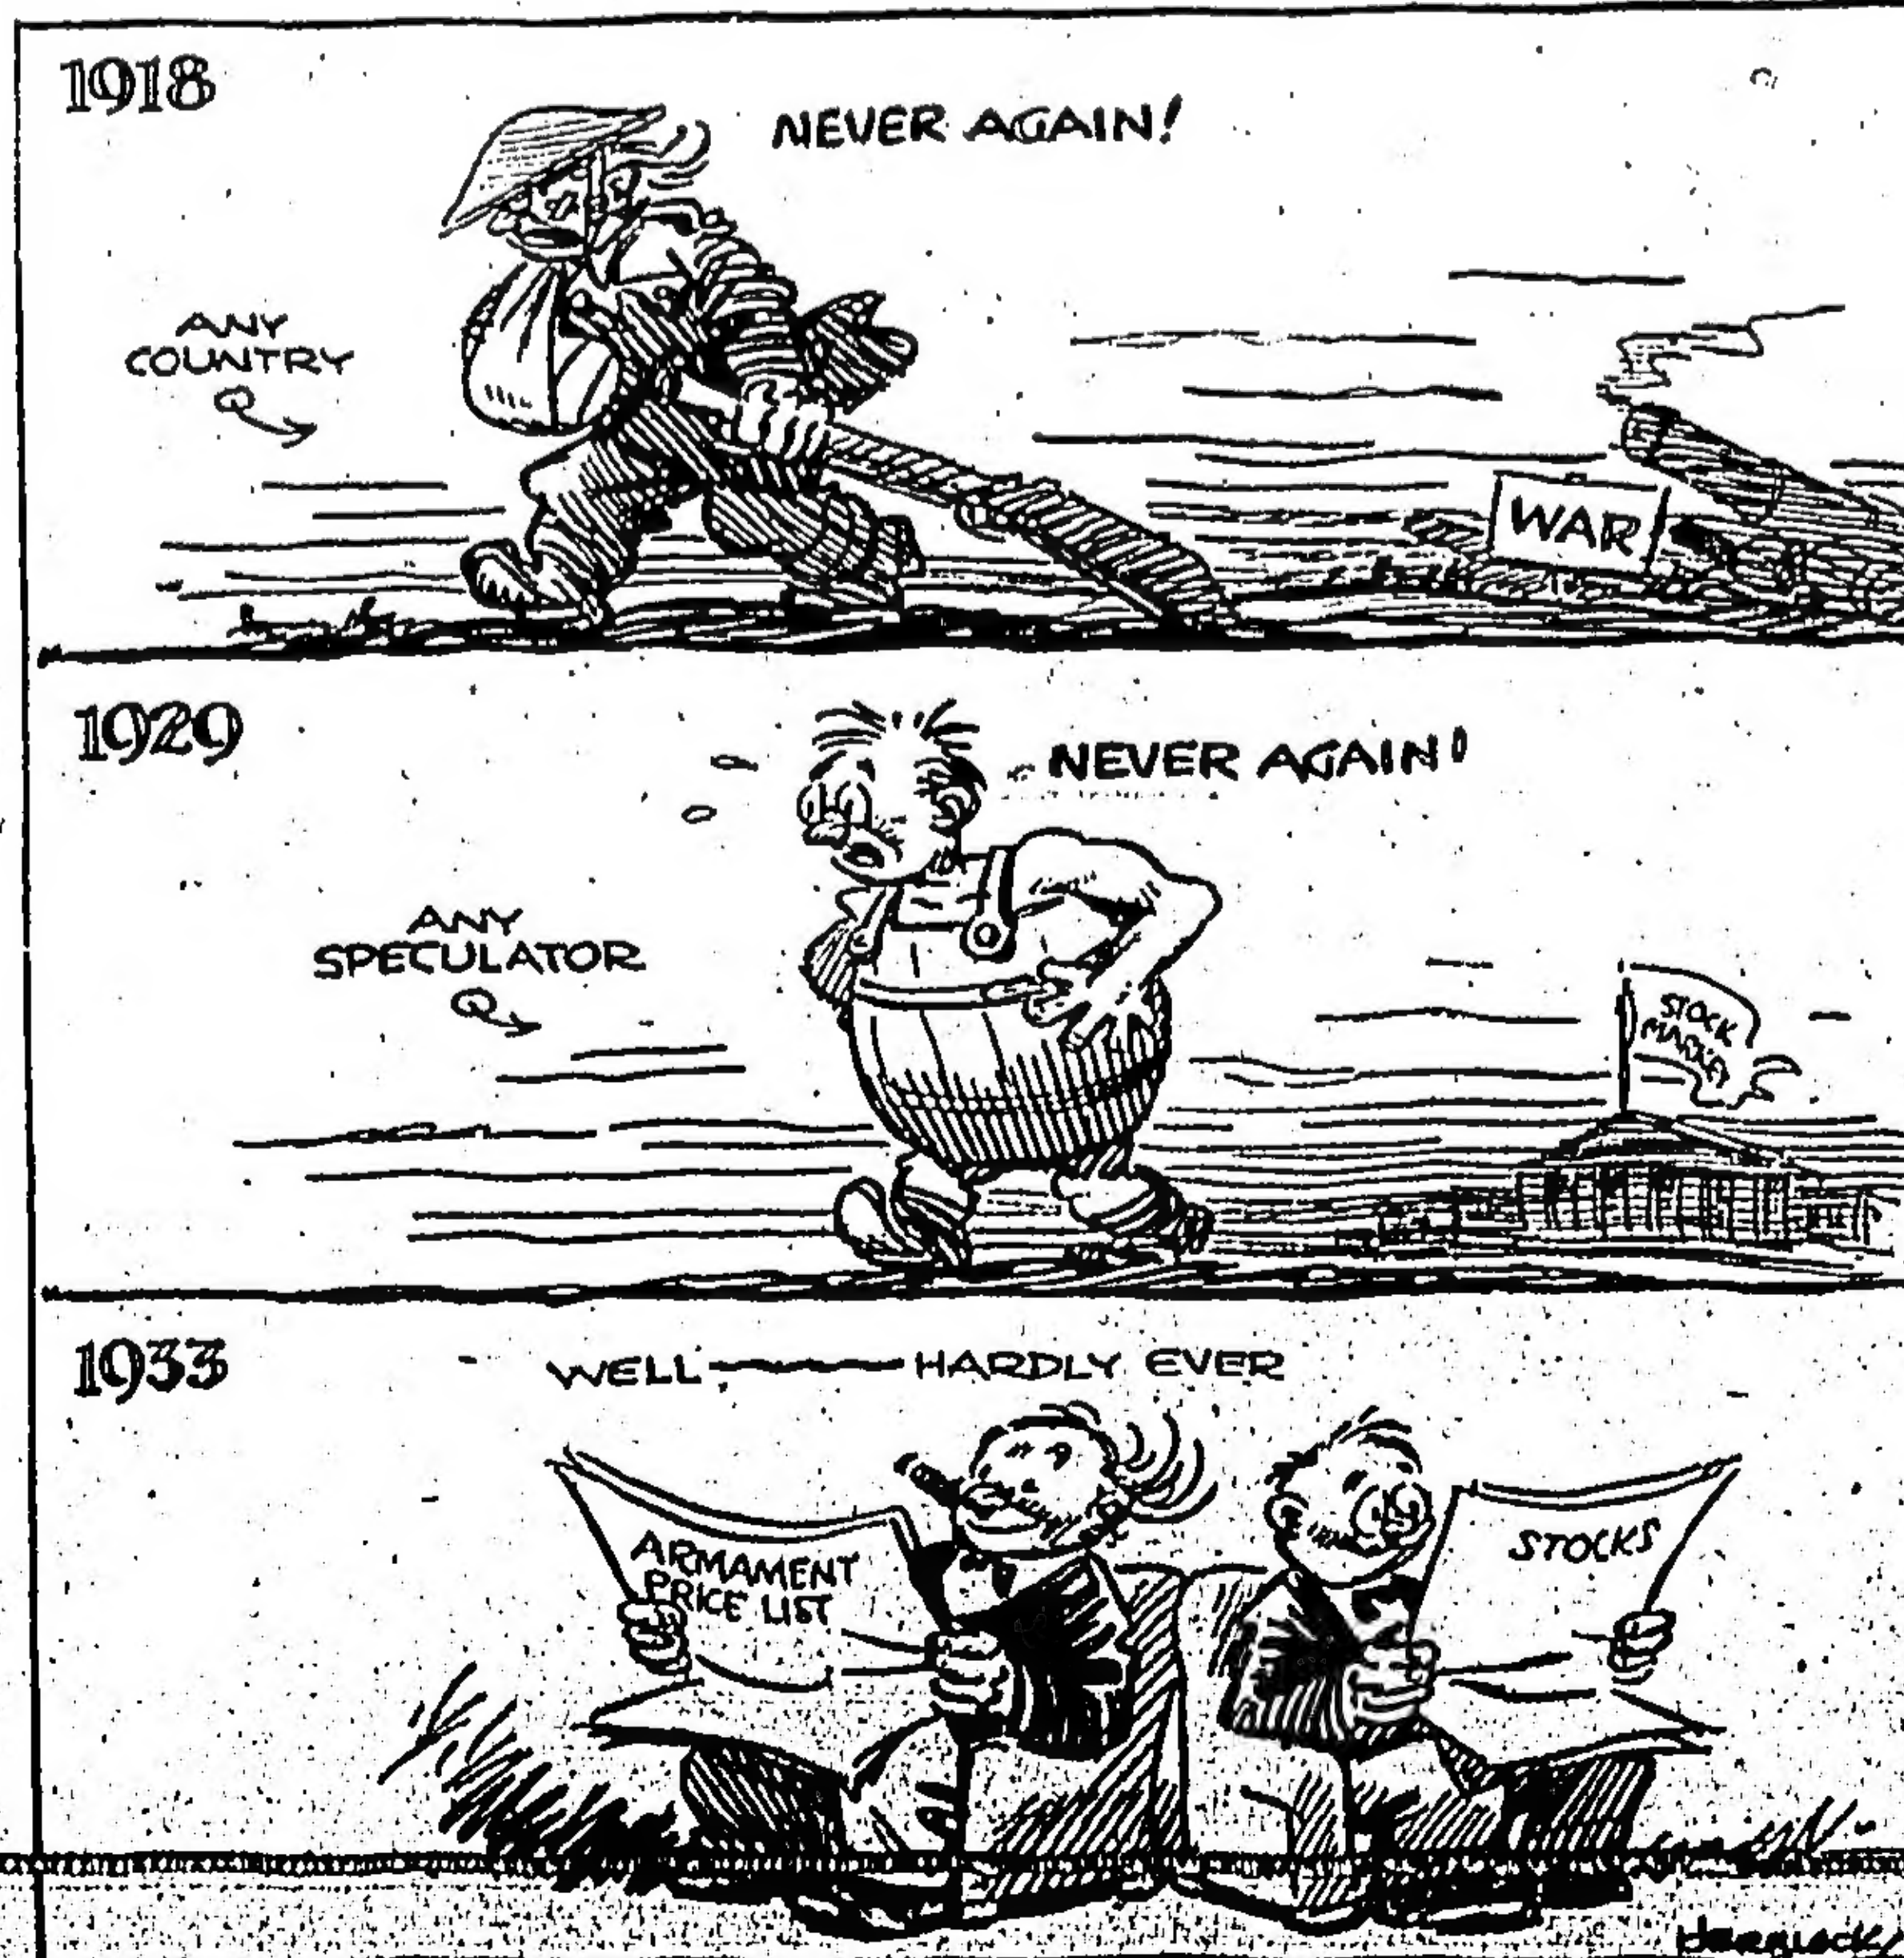

8—Thou shalt not suffer the paradox of poverty amid plenty.

9—Thou shalt not indulge the fallacy of neglecting thy own domestic economy; but neither does this signify that thou shalt isolate thyself like a hermit.

10—Thou shalt not have any doubts about the fact that the U.S. was approaching the city of disaster.

—Reuter.

CITY LOOTED

BANDITS CARRY OFF SEVERAL PRISONERS

Nanking, Sept. 19.

Luyi, in Eastern Honan, was captured by bandits on September 13, who looted the city and set on fire a number of buildings.

The bandits took the District Magistrate prisoner and carried him off, along with a number of other residents, on the following day.

When the city was approached, the city was looted.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Miriam Hopkins, diminutive blonde film star, is thinking about writing movies, as well as acting in them. Miss Hopkins developed the ambition after a talk with George Palmer Putnam, chairman of Paramount's New York story board, who was a visitor in Hollywood during the filming of "The Story of Temple Drake," picture, currently showing at the Queen's Theatre, in which she is featured with Jack LaRue.

Mr. Putnam repeated to her what he had said previously in a public address: "If you have a novel idea for a motion picture story, no matter if it is no more than a thought which can be expressed in a single sentence, send it in to a movie company. This is the golden hour for new writers."

And Miss Hopkins, who has nourished literary ambitions for many years, told him she'd have a few suggestions. "The Story of Temple Drake," based on a novel by William Faulkner and directed by Stephen Roberts, tells of a girl who refuses the offer of marriage of an attorney she loves because she fears she'll ruin his wife, and drives off with a drunken college boy in search of more liquor. Their ride ends in a crash, from which they emerge to find themselves virtual prisoners of a big-city gangster in a remote country hideaway. He sends the boy back to town, kills the only man who tries to protect the girl, and drags her off with him. The attorney in love with her is assigned to defend the man falsely accused of the murder. In his search for evidence, he finds the girl with the gangster. The events that follow bring the film to a startling climax.

"Cavalcade"

The long-awaited Fox Film production of Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" makes its local bow to-day at the King's Theatre.

"Cavalcade," which ran for a solid year at the famous Drury Lane Theatre in London as a play, attracted more attention than any drama produced in England in a generation. More than a million people stormed the theatre to see it during its run, and it is expected that the screen audience will exceed that of a hundred fold.

"Cavalcade" is a story of how world events affect the home and the family. It is the story of the Marryots, a middle class family consisting of Jane and Robert, the mother and father; their two sons, Edward and Joe; their servants, Bridges, the butler, Ellen, his wife, and Fanny, their daughter.

It covers the period from 1800 to the present day, and the absorbing story is etched against a vivid background of historical happenings during that time.

Numerous spectacular episodes add to the dramatic power of "Cavalcade," and include a number of historic events leading up to a kaleidoscopic resume of the chaotic condition of present day life.

Frank Lloyd, who directed, spent more than six months in preparation with a large technical staff before filming on scene, and every detail is authentic. He scoured the world for the most suitable players for the various roles, gathering an all-star cast which includes Diana Wynyard, Clive Brook, Beryl Mercer, Herbert Mundin, Una O'Connor, Irene Browne, Frank Lawton and Merle Tottenham.

The Misses O'Connor, Browne and Tottenham were members of the Drury Lane cast of "Cavalcade," and were brought to Hollywood to reenact the roles they created on the stage.

"Blondie of the Follies"

"Blondie of the Follies," which Edmund Goulding directed for Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer, brings Marion Davis and Robert Montgomery to the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

In this picture are scenes of the New York tenements, of the Ziegfeld Follies, of lavish parties on Park Avenue, and aboard a millionaire's yacht. There are glimpses of night life in the World's largest city. And to suggest all the places realistically it takes crowds.

"Blondie of the Follies" is the story of two New York working girls who gain popularity and luxury in the Broadway show world. It is the

MALAYAN CHAMPIONSHIP WON and British Record Broken

with the help of PHOSFERINE

CHAMPION
OOI LEONG TEIK writes:—

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I write to testify to the benefits I have received by taking Phosferine during my training for the 1931 Malayan Weight-Lifting Championships."

As I had to reduce some seven or eight pounds off my normal bodyweight in order to enable me to compete in the 9-stone class, I had to go into very strenuous training, and with the help of Phosferine, I not only won the championship of that class, but also the Individual Championship, and, in addition I broke a British Record.

I therefore have no hesitation in recommending Phosferine to any physical culturist or athlete, whether he be in ordinary training or preparing for a competition, as it

story of their friendship, their rivalry, their adventures and their heart-aches. Frances Marion, one of the screen's best writers, wrote the story and Anita Loos did the dialogue. Edmund Goulding, who won such praise with his handling of "Grand Hotel," directed the production.

Marion Davis and Billie Dove portray the two show girls. Robert Montgomery is a young man-about-town who learns about women from them.

Others in the cast are Jimmy Durante, James Gleason, Zasu Pitts, Sidney Toler, Douglas Dumbrille, Sarah Padden, Louise Carter, Clyde Cook and the Rocky twins, male dancing stars from the Paris stage.

"King of the Jungle"

Buster Crabbe, the young man of heroic build who portrays "The Lion Man," in "King of the Jungle," now showing at the Queen's Theatre was selected for the role after a search that covered practically every actor and athlete of prominence in America.

A swimming champion of world renown, Crabbe was believed by studio executives to possess all the attributes for the role.

Crabbe has competed in two Olympic Games, the one in Amsterdam in 1928, and the one held in Los Angeles this year. He holds five world's championships and thirty-five national championships as a swimmer. He is six feet, one inch tall and weighs 188 pounds.

The new star was born in Oakland, California. He is twenty-three years old, and is a graduate of the University of Southern California.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

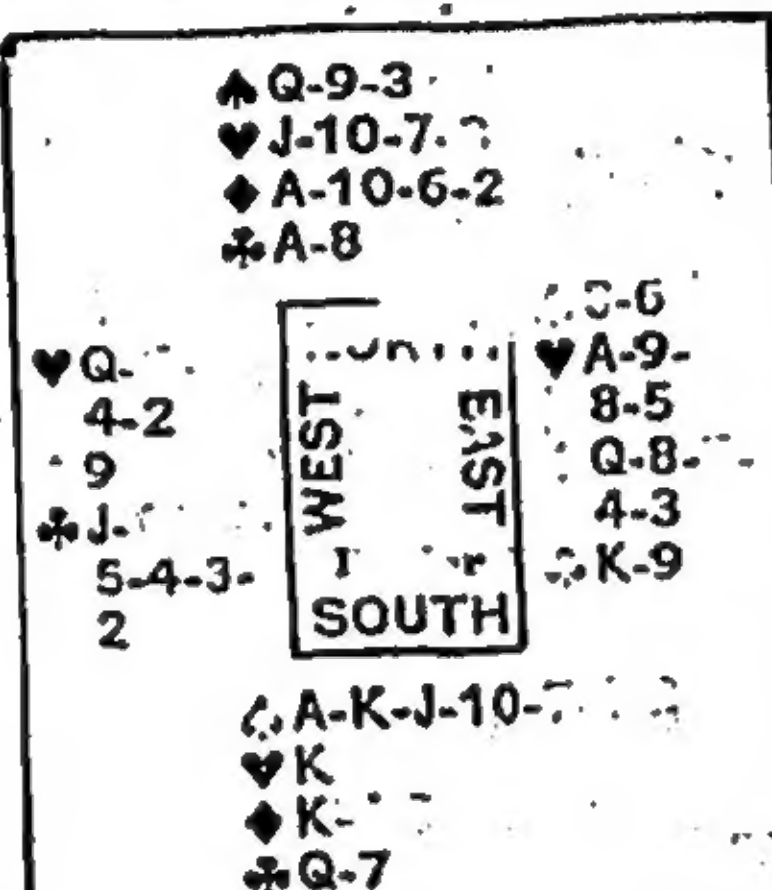

A squeeze play always produces a thrill, and of course, always makes an opponent uncomfortable. The following is one of the prettiest hands played at the recent National Championship Tournament at Asbury Park, N. J. The hand was played by Henry Channin of Atlanta, Ga., and the bidding was as follows:

The Bidding

Mr. Channin in the South bid one spade, West overcalled with two clubs, North bid two spades. East passed and South jumped to four spades. This jump to four spades is a mild slam try. North accepted the invitation and went to six spades.

The Play

West's opening lead was the jack of clubs and the ace went right up in dummy. Mr. Channin now took two rounds of spades, winning the second spade in dummy. His next play was a small diamond, finessing the jack. The king of diamonds was cashed and West showed out.

The declarer then laid down five straight spade tricks, retaining in his own hand the king of hearts, the five of diamonds and the queen of clubs. In dummy the jack of hearts and the ace and ten of diamonds were retained.

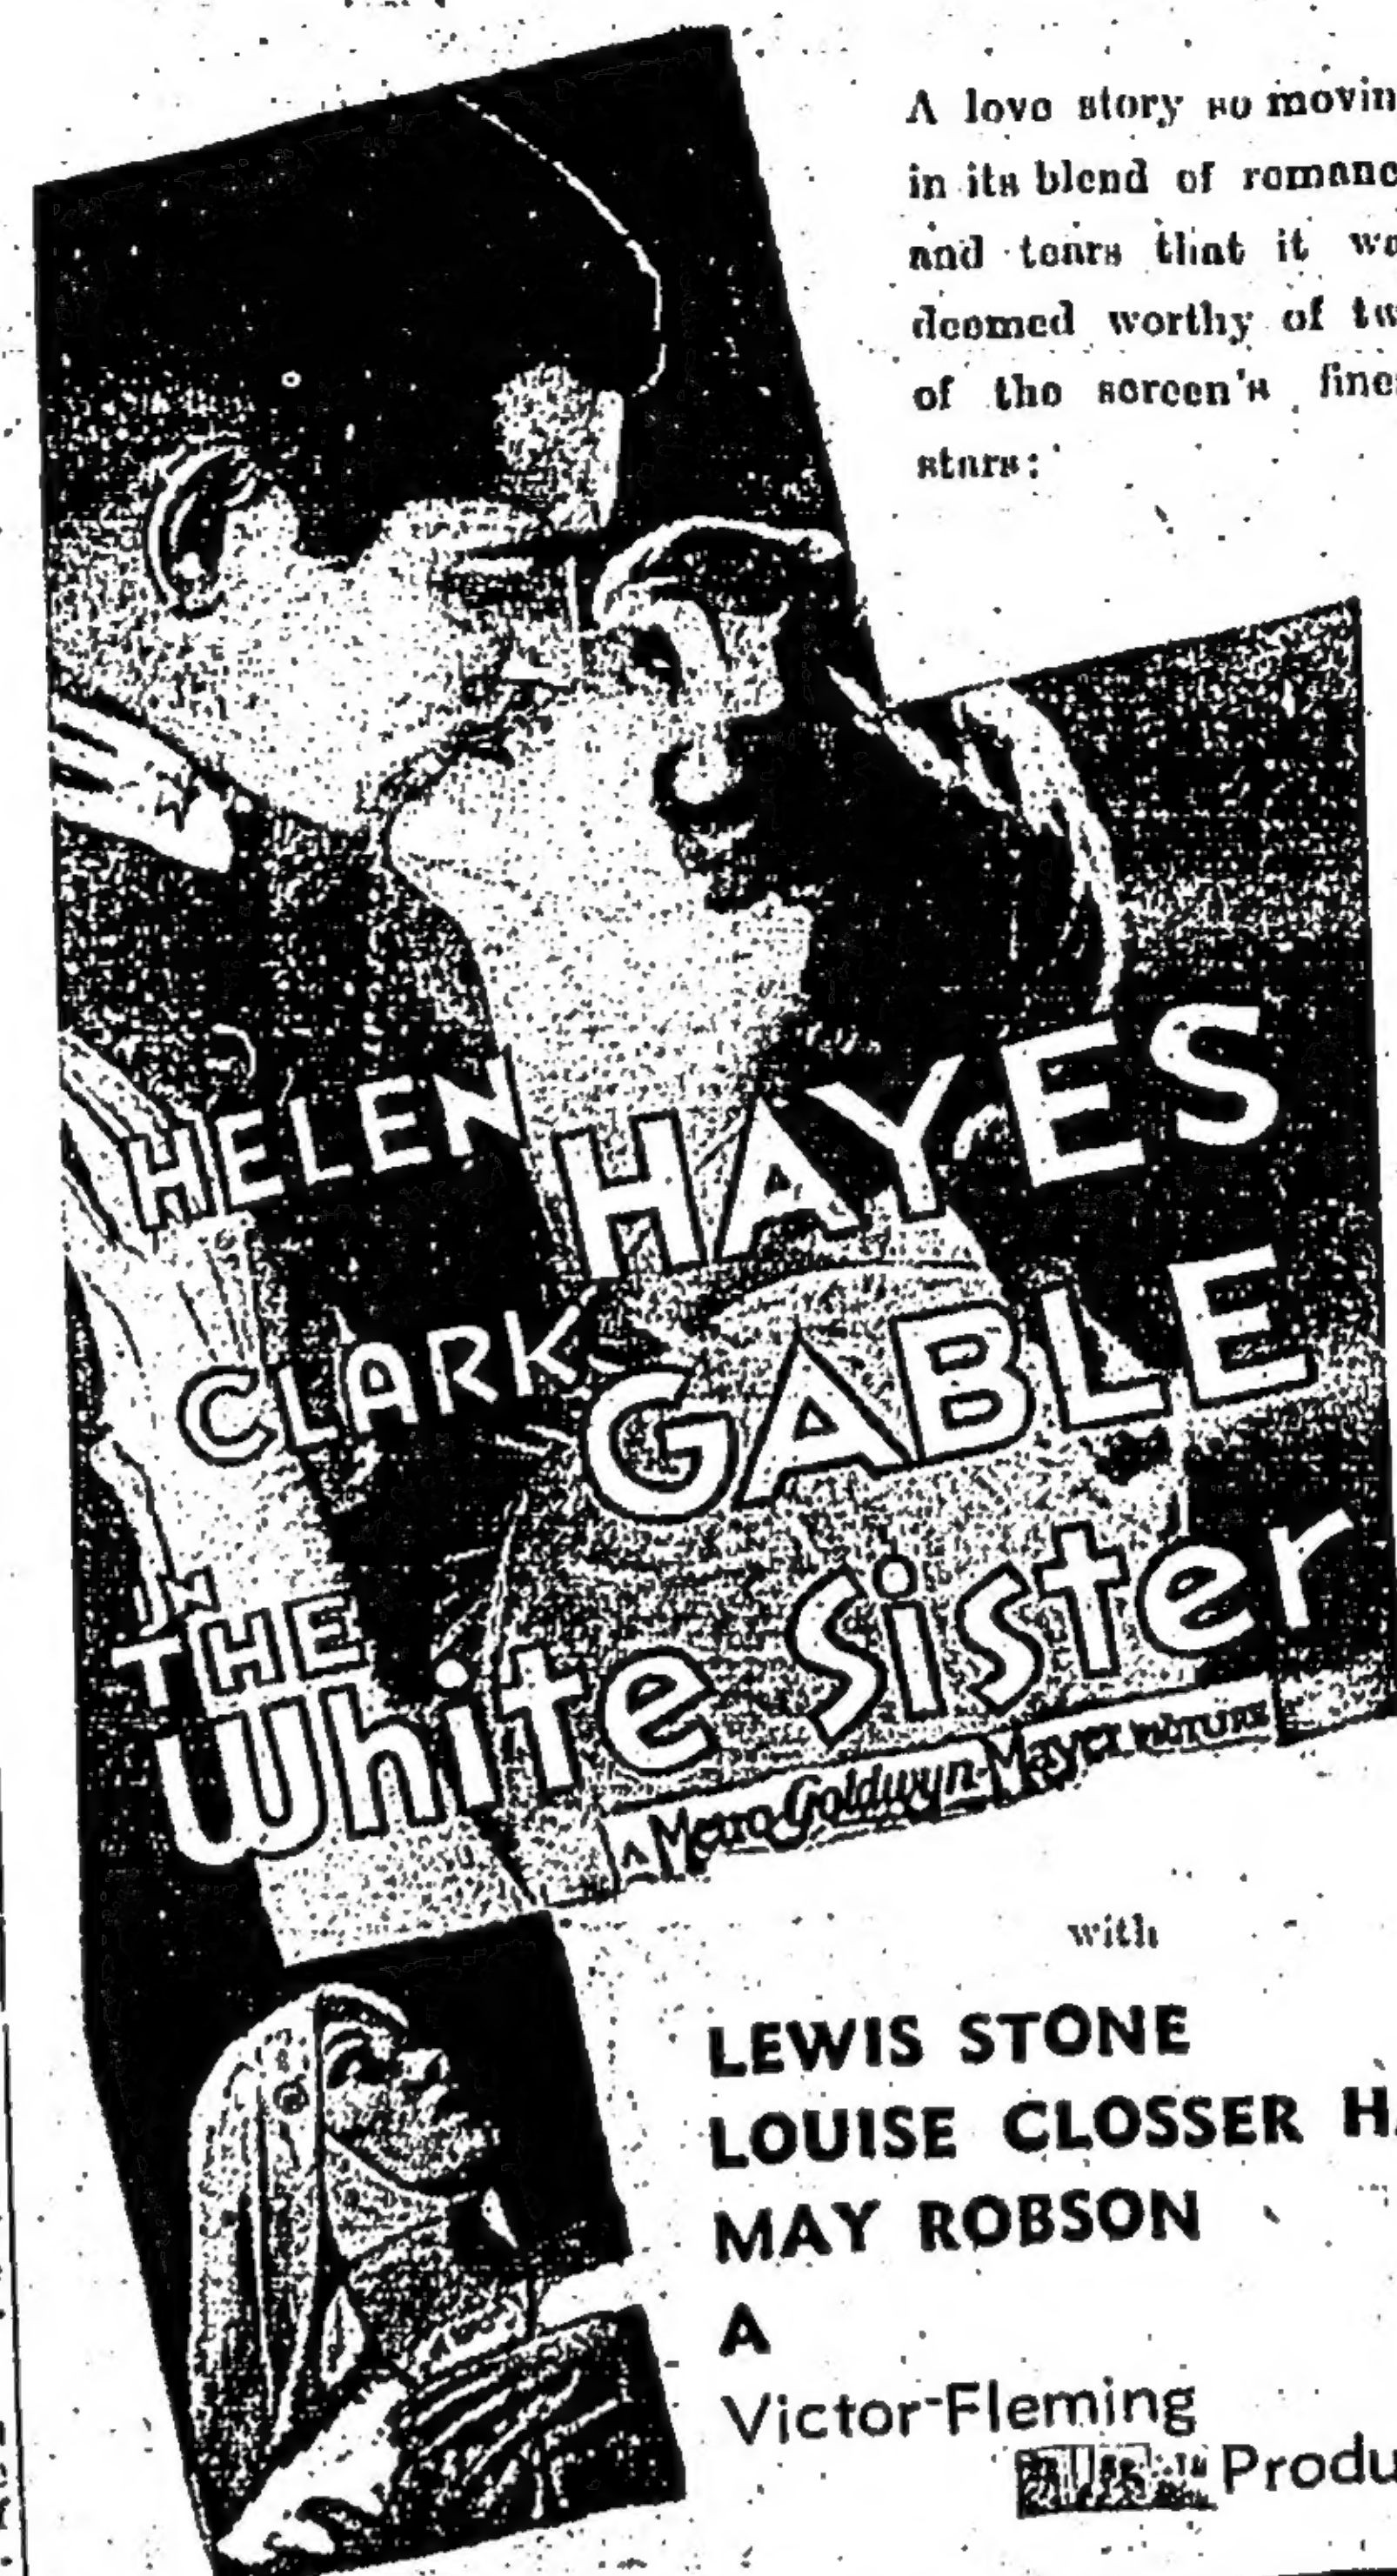

East, in the meantime, had been squeezed so that on the last spade lead he held the blank ace of hearts, the queen and eight of diamonds and the king of clubs. If he drops the ace of hearts the declarer's king is good, while if he plays the king of clubs, the declarer's queen will win; therefore he was forced to lay down the eight of diamonds. The declarer now led a small diamond, won in dummy with the ace, dropping East's queen, and the 12th trick was won with the ten of diamonds.

GERMAN ACTIVITIES
CONDEMNED

INTEREST OF THE POWERS

Vatican City, Sept. 19.
A curt denunciation of the methods of the Nazis in Austria is uttered by the official Vatican organ, the Osservatore Romano.

The journal challenges the statement made by Baron von Neurath in the course of his disarmament speech, in which he denied the right of other interested Powers to interfere in the Austro-German dispute and that German activity in Austria was only "natural."

The newspaper declares that
"air raids and the acts of violence committed in Austria by political parties give nations who are signatories to the peace treaties guaranteeing Austria her independence a definite right to interfere."

CATHOLIC ACTION.

Notwithstanding the signature of the concordat between the Vatican and Germany, that outstanding differences remain to be settled is revealed by the announcement that the status of Catholic Action organisations in Germany will be settled by special negotiations.

The Pope affixed his signature to the concordat on a Sunday, thereby breaking a Papal precedent in order to dispose of the report that he refused to sign owing to disapproval of Herr Hitler's religious policy.—Reuter.

President Roosevelt and Gen.
Johnson in a cheerful mood. With the signing of the Coal Code, the President believes that the turning-point in the recovery drive has been reached.

DUTCH DEFICIT

ECONOMIES AND NEW TAXATION

TO STAY ON THE GOLD STANDARD

The Hague, Sept. 19.
The intention of the Netherlands Government to maintain the gold standard is re-affirmed in the Budget, the figures of which were revealed to-day.

The deficit in the coming financial year, on the present
basis, would be 267,000,000
guilders.

This deficit will be met by a renewal of the temporary taxation
and by an increase in duties.

New measures, which are estimated to bring in additional revenue to the extent of 106,500,- 000 guilders include a sales tax, a coupon tax, a crisis income tax,
and increases in the duties on tobacco and coffee.

The deficit will be further decreased by economies in expenditure. Eighty-four million guilders will be saved by new salary cuts
affecting Government employees

Noel Coward's
GENERATION

ENTERTAINMENT!
TITANIC IN ITS POWER!

Three seething decades of relentless change sweep before your eyes... plugging nations, threatening empires, smashing civilization... a Cavalcade of mobs and monarchs... the march of time measured by the beat of a human heart... a mother heart... triumphant in its courage and steadfast faith.
